

Me

Does anyone remember me?

It has been years since I have been here.

Pretty clean ones' but not perfect.

Two falls in two weeks - this has not happened for a long time.

I thought that a bit of honesty and less over confidence might help me

Theres nothing wrong with confidence, but like you said too much can dig yourself into a whole that you don't even know your digging (it can lead to being more laxed)

?I don't have so much advise to give, as I'm in need of help also, but I just wanted to tell you that it's beautiful that you decided to be true to yourself and your morals by leaning on a crutch that you set up for yourself a while ago. THAT TAKES COURAGE. Something that I didn't necessarily have after I broke my streak. Be proud that you have somewhere to go to when you need it, and there are always people there when you need it.

Hatzlacha Rabba with your fight!!!

And a BIG SHKOYOCH

Welcome back!

They should host the GYE servers on a hill instead of in a pit, so people don't have to fall to get back here..

Those 2 line are the most simple yet brilliant I have seen in a while.

Boruch Hashem, still clean.

I think that it helped to "lower" myself to come back to the Forum. It is a good way to remember that we cannot manage ourselves.

If we remember that it is a short step to remember that we need Hashem.

I was astounded that I started here seven years ago. I would never have imagined that it was so long!

I guess that it is good to see things black on white. A little reminder of what will be after 120 years..

When I was young I imagined that at some age I would be free of this problem. For some reason the age keeps on increasing...

I am learning that this is actually part of life, or more accurately said LIVING.

I think that all of you realised this years ago....

Thank you all of your kind words
