

Make it to Yeshiva

Posted by YeshivaGuy - 04 Aug 2020 05:33

Hi everyone,

First I want to say that I am humbled and honored to be in the presence of such Giborei Koach, true warriors of Hakadosh Baruch Hu.

I bh am not addicted to pornography.

I haven't been on a porn website.

But I'm getting close, and I'm here to gain chizuk not to fall into it.

Once I return to Yeshiva I'm safe, but as long as I'm home I'm in danger, and bh I haven't fallen into pornography. However it's the next step, chalila.

I bh am running a camp, so I started keeping busy, so bh have only been nichshal once in the last 3 weeks.

i want to just express my gratitude to all of you, and my great admiration for each and every one of you.

My Yetzer tries telling me "comon, porn can't be that bad, it's just the word that sounds scary" or like "it can't be so different than YouTube videos"

So I'm here to gain that chizuk.

thank you!

people with low self esteem usually have master plans for their future and believe they have potential but feel like they are not worthy in the moment.

Ah, I think now I chap what u meant

If I had a low self esteem etc then it wouldn't bother me so much. But I really beleive in myself that I can become a Big Talmud Chacham and Oved HaShem.

And that's what bothers me, that I'm not pushing harder. Not enough Mesirus Nefesh...

Every single time I attempt to get better to get back on track, I just fall back down.

So what's the mahalach?

people with low self esteem usually have master plans for their future and believe they have potential but feel like they are not worthy in the moment.

Ah I think I may understand now what u meant.

Ur not saying not to have "She'eefa l'Gadlus," ur just saying not to be upset when I don't always fulfill my aspirations?

Or are you saying to make my aspirations more realistic?

"Sheifa" and "sheifa lgadlus" can be detrimental to true growth, because they are vaguely defined and leave an emptiness due to a person never knowing really if this is what "gadlus" is. It is a picture an illusion and not necessarily a good thing. It also causes lots of anxiety. An eved hashem is a person living in the present with the Torah as his guide.

Correct me if I'm wrong we don't find this "shprach" in the Seforim of the kadmonim, there we are taught the real thing not platitudes.

For debates sake...

BTW you have been a tremendous inspiration to many and to me personally.

This is why one needs guidance from a Rebbe and must be honest with himself.

Obviously, as I said, if it causes anxiety then it's not being done properly.

But to rob an entire generation of Jews of any semblance of "She'eefa" is a tremendous disservice to Klall Yisrael.

Chazal say one should always say ????? ????? ????? ?????? ?????? (There's your Makor)

Now, does that mean we should beat ourselves up for not being perfect?

No.

But it means we should have She'eefa l'Gadlus.

We look to the previous generations to see and learn what living like a yid means and to emulate them, so that's defined. It's not a master plan and goal oriented.

Debatable.

One should set goals to grow.

I think this is pretty poshut stuff, no?

I think people are so afraid of potential failure that they never actually push themselves to grow.

We need to encourage our children to be big and beleive in them. Not just be satisfied with mediocrity

??? ???? ???? ????? ?????

Sounds to me more like its about focusing on each individual ????,

it's not about results.

Of course we should try and always do the right things but that does not mean to become roshei yeshiva. The end result of one persons best could be detrimental for another guy who tries to emulate.

Guys guys, all I said was that I expect myself to go to Shachris. Don't worry, I'm not chas vshalom (sarcasm) becoming a Rosh HaYeshiva anytime soon Showing our kids what a person can become and develop and refine and utilize our given strengths is all extremely important. But that has nothing to do with gadlus and sheifos it is every person's journey whether it will seem mediocre to somebody else or not. If somebody has a big soul and brain they should develop it and that is their journey. It is the picture that we create and then the pressure to fill it is what is causing immense problems.

Maybe.

But I know that I would never have pushed myself to learn and make it to a real Yeshiva and shteig unless my Rebbium instilled within me a drive to attain Gadlus.

Honestly, I think this is poshut stuff.

Obviously it should be done with love and properly, but we need to communicate to our children that they are the future of Klall Yisrael.

This Dor needs to take achrayus.

There's a difference between pressure and responsibility.

My Rosh HaYeshiva got up last week and spoke about how we are the future of Klall Yisrael and gotta fight the Yetzer etc

That was not pressure.

That was the Rosh HaYeshiva instilling within his Talmidim a sense of achrayus

That's great! But we do need to graduate of that mindset at one point (It is debatable if out should be used as a stepping stone at all) and be true to ourselves, ch"v not to become lazy and lax with our avodah but to make it real and about ourselves.
