

Respect

Shalom Brothers

This is my initiation post I guess. My background is religious conservative, married no children, but instead of progressing toward righteousness, the bad habits related to our struggle, increased to cancel my progress in service of Israel.

I hacked around an accountability app, and then, in frustration immediately cancelled the subscription. Then having second thoughts and unsuccessfully trying to renew subscription, i sought for alternative options, that's when I found GYE.

I also have a few years experience with a similar, but much smaller association and forum, where I became aware of some challenges partly due to the limited nature of electronic communication. I should say I am impressed at the level of thoughtfulness and maturity that comes through on the posts that I have read so far. If providence permits i will try to keep checking and would appreciate any replies without questions since I will be taking advantage of the invitation of anonymity.

P.s. I found and am trying a new free accountability app.
