

My personal battle front

Posted by Evedhasem - 20 Oct 2023 05:30

Hi all!

So excited to join this amazing community of People that are trying to get closer to hashem, just from joining I feel less bad for myself, and I think I'm sensing the faint smell of freedom! This really is big!

let me introduce myself!

my name is Chaim and I've been struggling with p&m for a VERY long time, I've fought many hard battles some more and some less successfully, this Yom Kippur I cried out so hard from the depths of my heart, and committed to join gye which I heard about a few weeks beforehand, I'm really grateful to hashem and to all the amazing people here, I feel like this will be the time when I destroy my enemy!! I also strongly feel like I'm with our brothers and sisters at war, I'm fighting my war and it'll definitely protect them in EY at war! We should all be able to be victorious!!!!

Question: I'm a little overwhelmed with the amount of information on this website, can I get a recommendation of what I can do as a simple daily commitment to stay on track? I started watching the videos but there's so much information and I don't want to overwhelm myself with too much...

thank you guys! And good luck to me and all of you with our beautiful and exciting journeys!

TYH

Welcome!!! If you're looking for something 'easy' to do daily, try reading the handbook and/or the battle of the generation. I think they can be found in the books section of the website. Also try reading through the forums. good luck

Welcome on board. Wishing you tremendous hatzlocha. Don't worry if it feels a bit overwhelming in the beginning. With time you will get a better grip on what is happening here. Please stay connected and you will iyh thrive

. If you have WhatsApp it is important to sign up for the vayimaen daily videos.

Best wishes

Vehkam

Welcome.

Hope lives here.

So do many special people to learn from and grow with.

You'll get the hang of what will work for you, imyh. Read some of the forums, and keep in touch!

Hazlacha,

Chaim Oigen

Just start out reading a little , posting a little, chatting a little - you'll find your place .

We've all been through the same stage as you .

In regards to the vayimaen videos you can also get it daily via email - I know that I do .

I believe it comes through Torah anytime

Hatzlocha!

Welcome!

I don't know what is your current struggle, but might want to consider getting an accountability partner to check in with on a daily basis.

Indeed there is endless information on this website and was overwhelming for me in the beginning as well, it's important to limit your time re so that you don't get carried away by all new info there is to read here, with the time you will find what content relates to you the most and will eventually help you change perspective.

I saw many people suggesting Vehkam's thread (I didn't yet read it so I can't tell more).

Wishing you all the luck in the world!

Oh and of course please keep us posted here.
