

Something worth listening to

Posted by merryzebra74 - 17 Jun 2024 21:02

---

Just wanted to share a mareh makom with the oilam, for those who didn't know about the Adirei Hatorah event that took place last night or were unable to attend. R' Ephraim Wachsman Shlit"a spoke in his amazing, inimitable way as usual, but there was one story he told which triggered something in me and I could not stop crying after hearing it. I felt it might also be a his'oirerus for the oilam here. I was unable to attend but listened to a recording today on the chayeinu hotline (732-301-4043). It's the last 5 minutes of the drasha about the boy and the piece of cake. May we be all be zoche to "vetaher libainu l'avdecha b'emes".

=====

====

Re: Something worth listening to

Posted by yiftach - 23 Jun 2024 09:38

---

But "cake" has nothing to do with a bochur struggling with porn use.

Assuming that many/most bachurim/yungerleit have marbles... they understood very well what he meant in his speech.

No, it wasn't about cake...

How many times have I (others?) fallen and thought of ourselves as jerks with no way out?! Hearing this, that the fall is not a disappointment, just a proof of the sacrifice, is a tremendous source of chizzuk (for me, at least).

=====

====

Re: Something worth listening to

Posted by adam2014 - 23 Jun 2024 10:47

---

Is there a number or someway to find that particular speech? I had never called that Hotline before and was having trouble finding it.

=====

=====

Re: Something worth listening to
Posted by eerie - 23 Jun 2024 16:05

---

adam2014 wrote on 23 Jun 2024 10:47:

Is there a number or someway to find that particular speech? I had never called that Hotline before and was having trouble finding it.

I can email it to you, if you want. PM me your email, I'll send it beH

=====

=====

Re: Something worth listening to
Posted by jbl96 - 24 Jun 2024 15:26

---

his speech by the internet asifa was memorable and years ahead of its time...

=====

=====

Re: Something worth listening to
Posted by Icebreaker - 25 Jun 2024 16:29

---

adam2014 wrote on 23 Jun 2024 10:47:

Is there a number or someway to find that particular speech? I had never called that Hotline before and was having trouble finding it.

Torahanytime.com, class ID#304845

=====

=====

Re: Something worth listening to
Posted by eerie - 25 Jun 2024 17:00

---

Here it is

=====

=====

Re: Something worth listening to
Posted by eerie - 25 Jun 2024 20:00

---

So, I posted on Proudyoungerman's thread that I want to give his letter to a Rav. I am happy to report that I gave his letter to Rabbi Wachsmann. And I told him a little about myself, too. Yes, it was embarrassing. Yes, I wanted to chicken out. But I didn't. He knows me, and although giving a letter is nice, there's no comparison to hearing all about it from a person you know from before, and I hoped to make an impact, that he realize the truth about this resource.

I told Rabbi Wachsmann a little about what GYE does, who are the people that are here, etc. My main point to him was, I want you know that there is help for all those people coming to you, for all those people writing letters to you, for all the people that are struggling alone, which literally breaks my heart

As far as your question, Reb Chosemyshem, about what exactly will we accomplish, being that the rabbanim a) know about the issue, and b) they know about GYE

First of all, even someone like Rabbi Wachsmann, who knows what's out there, it was clear to see that from knowing in his mind to feeling it in his bones is a vast distance. I don't know how many people in similar positions to mine have opened up to him, but so much I can say, he was obviously experiencing with a newness, with a 'wow. That's crazy'-ness. And that means that although the Rabbanim have a ????? ??, they, due their purity, don't have a full ????? ?? ??.

As far GYE is concerned, he knew about it very vaguely. And he didn't really know what they do and what goes on here. I hope my sacrifice will have changed that

The main thing, dear friends, is this. As CMS, and others have pointed out there are so many silent sufferers. And even those who do reach out to their Rav, Rosh Yeshiva or rebbe, how many of those really know what GYE is about? How many of them know how much help people can get here?

And, my dear friends, don't get angry at me for saying so, but it's up to us to change that! It won't do much if Yaakov Nadel comes down to your rav, or to my rav. A little, but...And now, imagine the impact of YOU going over to a rav, rosh yeshiva etc. and telling him about how GYE has helped YOU! I know, I'm crazy. But, dear friends, please think about it. Maybe, maybe, maybe, perhaps you would be willing to speak to someone? Not your rav, maybe MY rav?

Friends, if you have a different way of educating our rabbanim, of getting the GYE message out there, by all means, please chime in! But we gotta remember, WE, the people who are here and really know what it's about, have an achrayus to share it. What can YOU do?

=====

Re: Something worth listening to
Posted by frank.lee - 25 Jun 2024 20:13

---

Awesome! You were moser nefesh for klal yisroel!!

A small thing is - GYE is not a perfect solution for everyone. I think young bachurom who are suffering from or addicted to p/m, but not exposed to the underbelly of the internet or whatever, maybe they need something more safe, less explicit about certain things, just like the BB forum is off-limits officially? In other words, if I knew a 15 year tmimusdike bachur was having an issue, but does not have unfiltered internet, I think I would not want to send him here. Makes sense?

Of course, for people who are fully exposed to the world's garbage, send him over to GYE, and the Rabanim should know about this crucial and powerful resource, for those people.

=====

Re: Something worth listening to
Posted by chosemyshe - 25 Jun 2024 20:18

---

eerie wrote on 25 Jun 2024 20:00:

So, I posted on Proudyoungerman's thread that I want to give his letter to a Rav. I am happy to report that I gave his letter to Rabbi Wachsmen. And I told him a little about myself, too. Yes, it was embarrassing. Yes, I wanted to chicken out. But I didn't. He knows me, and although giving a letter is nice, there's no comparison to hearing all about it from a person you know from before, and I hoped to make an impact, that he realize the truth about this resource.

The main thing, dear friends, is this. As CMS, and others have pointed out there are so many silent sufferers. And even those who do reach out to their Rav, Rosh Yeshiva or rebbe, how many of those really know what GYE is about? How many of them know how much help people can get here?

And, my dear friends, don't get angry at me for saying so, but it's up to us to change that! It won't do much if Yaakov Nadel comes down to your rav, or to my rav. A little, but...And now, imagine the impact of YOU going over to a rav, rosh yeshiva etc. and telling him about how GYE has helped YOU! I know, I'm crazy. But, dear friends, please think about it. Maybe, maybe, maybe, perhaps you would be willing to speak to someone? Not your rav, maybe MY rav?

Wow, ashreicha! It's not so much a chiddush to me when someone opens up to a Rav or whomever about themselves. Yeah it's tough (too tough for me) but at the end of the day it's "change or die" and people are motivated to not die, to break out of the cycle of pain. But when someone opens up and puts himself and his shameful story out there, not to help himself, but to hopefully help others I'm truly inspired.

Dov said in a shuir something like opening up honestly is a crucial part of getting clean, but don't go bang on the bima and announce that you can't control your masturbating because opening up doesn't require destroying your life. And here you have guys like PY and Eerie taking that risk and basically banging on the bima. And only to help others. Wow! I've never said "mi k'amcha yisroel" non-ironically before, but mi k'amcha yisroel!!

Strongly considering sending my own letter. Gonna sleep on that idea.

=====
=====

Re: Something worth listening to
Posted by jewizard21 - 25 Jun 2024 21:33

---

Happens to be GYE does advertise, but people don't really know what it is..

I only started getting adds for GYE after I started posting. Maybe GYE needs to change their marketing base. I don't know exactly how it works but I know that advertising companies use cookies to provide the consumer with adds that relate to their searches. How is someone that isn't looking for help gonna get an add from GYE?

=====

=====

Re: Something worth listening to
Posted by redfaced - 25 Jun 2024 21:50

---

eerie wrote on 25 Jun 2024 20:00:

And, my dear friends, don't get angry at me for saying so, but it's up to us to change that! It won't do much if Yaakov Nadel comes down to your rav, or to my rav. A little, but...And now, imagine the impact of YOU going over to a rav, rosh yeshiva etc. and telling him about how GYE has helped YOU! I know, I'm crazy. But, dear friends, please think about it. Maybe, maybe, maybe, perhaps you would be willing to speak to someone? Not your rav, maybe MY rav?

Friends, if you have a different way of educating our rabbanim, of getting the GYE message out there, by all means, please chime in! But we gotta remember, WE, the people who are here and really know what it's about, have an achrayus to share it. What can YOU do?

I just read this last paragraph 5 times.... my heart is beating faster thinking about going over to my Rav, or maybe even a Rebbe from a very long time ago. I might need someone to hold my hand

=====

=====

Re: Something worth listening to
Posted by jewizard21 - 25 Jun 2024 22:37

---

I remember when I scheduled the meeting with a Rav I felt I trusted. That day was the most terrified I have ever been in my life and I had to force myself to go through with it.

BH I did bc it was one of the most important things I did. As the Rav said it was the hardest thing I had ever done bc it's against the nature of one that is secret so long to reveal themselves. I believe it is an integral part in the journey to recovery.

It is VERY scary but it is EXTREMELY banaficial!!

Hatzlacha whether you do it or not!!

=====

Re: Something worth listening to

Posted by proudyungerman - 25 Jun 2024 22:52

---

redfaced wrote on 25 Jun 2024 21:50:

eerie wrote on 25 Jun 2024 20:00:

So, I posted on Proudyingerman's thread that I want to give his letter to a Rav. I am happy to report that I gave his letter to Rabbi Wachsmann. And I told him a little about myself, too. Yes, it was embarrassing. Yes, I wanted to chicken out. But I didn't. He knows me, and although giving a letter is nice, there's no comparison to hearing all about it from a person you know from before, and I hoped to make an impact, that he realize the truth about this resource.

I told Rabbi Wachsmann a little about what GYE does, who are the people that are here, etc. My main point to him was, I want you know that there is help for all those people coming to you, for all those people writing letters to you, for all the people that are struggling alone, which literally breaks my heart

As far as your question, Reb Chosemyshem, about what exactly will we accomplish, being that the rabbanim a) know about the issue, and b) they know about GYE

First of all, even someone like Rabbi Wachsmann, who knows what's out there, it was clear to see that from knowing in his mind to feeling it in his bones is a vast distance. I don't know how many people in similar positions to mine have opened up to him, but so much I can say, he was obviously experiencing with a newness, with a 'wow. That's crazy'-ness. And that means that although the Rabbanim have a ?????? ????, they, due their purity, don't have a full ?????? ?? ????.

As far GYE is concerned, he knew about it very vaguely. And he didn't really know what they do and what goes on here. I hope my sacrifice will have changed that

The main thing, dear friends, is this. As CMS, and others have pointed out there are so many silent sufferers. And even those who do reach out to their Rav, Rosh Yeshiva or rebbe, how many of those really know what GYE is about? How many of them know how much help people can get here?

And, my dear friends, don't get angry at me for saying so, but it's up to us to change that! It won't do much if Yaakov Nadel comes down to your rav, or to my rav. A little, but...And now, imagine the impact of YOU going over to a rav, rosh yeshiva etc. and telling him about how GYE has helped YOU! I know, I'm crazy. But, dear friends, please think about it. Maybe, maybe, maybe, perhaps you would be willing to speak to someone? Not your rav, maybe MY rav?

Friends, if you have a different way of educating our rabbanim, of getting the GYE message out there, by all means, please chime in! But we gotta remember, WE, the people who are here and really know what it's about, have an achrayus to share it. What can YOU do?

I just read this last paragraph 5 times.... my heart is beating faster thinking about going over to my Rav, or maybe even a Rebbe from a very long time ago. I might need someone to hold my hand

If you let me out of that teacup, (ahem, babysitting - sorry) I'd be glad to!

But seriously, please ~~consider doing just that~~ JUST DO IT! PLEASE

As R' Eerie said so beautifully, it's on us to change the status quo. That means all of us.

You know who you are, and now you are starting to realize what you can do to help others, and Klal Yisrael.

And, as R' Eerie also said, please please chime in if you have other ideas of how to get the word out!

?????!

=====

=====

Re: Something worth listening to
Posted by eerie - 26 Jun 2024 15:35

---

frank.lee wrote on 25 Jun 2024 20:13:

Awesome! You were moser nefesh for klal yisroel!!

A small thing is - GYE is not a perfect solution for everyone. I think young bachurom who are suffering from or addicted to p/m, but not exposed to the underbelly of the internet or whatever, maybe they need something more safe, less explicit about certain things, just like the BB forum is off-limits officially? In other words, if I knew a 15 year tmimusdike bachur was having an issue, but does not have unfiltered internet, I think I would not want to send him here. Makes sense?

Of course, for people who are fully exposed to the world's garbage, send him over to GYE, and the Rabanim should know about this crucial and powerful resource, for those people.

Absolutely. A boy, or young man, or anyone for that matter, that struggles with regular shmiras einayim issues, or even masturbation issues but doesn't use the internet much, has not struggled with porn, I wouldn't think he should come here. I think there could be another idea set up, maybe a helpline for rabbanim, run by HHM or the like, that can offer real ideas that really help. But the many, many people, like myself, who have struggled with worse than that, they can really use this place. And that's the message we gotta get out there.

Friends, there's a great tzaddik here that has some ideas. Might sound somewhat radical to some, but hey, I think it's a crazy, wonderful idea. Will share more later, beH

=====

=====