

looking for people that understand my situation

Posted by relaxed - 02 Aug 2024 02:56

I am an amazing rabbi. I am considered by all of my students to be THE BEST RABBI. and the reason behind it is because I'm really interesting and exciting. and I show real care and understanding to every child. b"h since my teenage years I don't struggle with hoitzuas zera levatule. what I do struggle is with fomo and a bit of porn. b"h not too much since I don't have access to computers that are unfiltered. so what IS my problem. I have low self esteem and I give all to my students but it is NOT from a healthy place. its from a place of not being able to say the word NO. so I become every few days DOWN and then I will daven just to be over and guess what? I never enjoy my life because I over think or I WORRY ALWAYS for the future. if I have some errands or I woke up late - that is very often- I just daven 123 AND IT IS SO NOT ME I am a very emotional person by nature that is never happy and wants clarity in life and wants to grow constantly. I don't remember my learning although I know every politician and all of history by heart. because I never get the point BECAUSE I AM NEVER FOCUSED. and one special problem that gets me into the dirt is - that I TAKE EVERYTHING TO HEART. so when someone will tell me some comment on my family community shul klal yisroel I become SO DOWN. and this is the pattern that makes me check out every famous women's life and image and from time to time to call up all sorts of hot lines. And turn to dirt. I would love to hear back from amazing people on this holy website.

Welcome,

By the way, GYE has a high proportion of Rabbis and the like, myself included.

So feel at home, like in the teachers room in Yeshiva, where we're relatable and in the same boat.

From the experience of many, make connections with others, do the work, and the good times will come.

Friends, it has been years that I have been looking for a partner in AVOIDAS HASHEM . I tried sooooooooo many ways to get someone.

all tzadikim on this platform share one thing. WE WANT TO BE HONEST AND WORK ON OURSELVES TO BECOME BETTER YIDEN WITHOUT BLAMING. I spoke to a few of you wow I am inspired to keep growing. thanks eerie! m111 I cant wait to talk to you iyh soon. FAMILY GYE, LISTEN UP..... I AM CONVINCED THAT HASHEM GETS EXCITED AND PROUD WHEN HE CHECKS OUT THIS FORUM. AND HE IS LOOKING FORWARD TO ROSH HASHUNE THAT HE ALREADY HAS LOTS OF OIVDIM ON GYE THAT WILL BE MAMLICH HIM.

friends.....I had a slip.... b"h not physically but I bought and watched

I know it stems from a very emotional week - I was working so hard.

my trap is WHEN I FALL INTO SELF PITY.... this is what happened because my son changed yeshivah and is miserable and rightfully so.

people help me stay strong

It's difficult to slip but the key is to not get discouraged, when we slip the YH wants us to give up. Get right back up and keep fighting, it's the attitude that Hashem loves.

I'll be praying for your hatzlachah,

Have a great shabbos

I feel for you my friend, falls are painful. Recognizing why you fell is a good thing for the future. Please don't let it get at you because that is the YH trying to get you to fall again. Hatzlacha Raba. Good Shabbos.
