

Confesion: The real me!!

Posted by 14 - 31 Aug 2010 14:15

Hello everyone, I have a very important and strange confesion to make, I hope knowone will kill me.

Here goes.

About a month ago I introduced myself to GYU in a thread named "help I'm 14 years old" as a 14 year old teen, now, the truth of the matter is that I'm actually 16 (soon 17), but this is hardly the issue, the point is that I also gave off a clear impresion that I am one of those extremely innocent, young and confused 'just hit puberty' kids, who come from an very ultra chasidic family, and who sometimes just can't seem to control the need to masturbate, hence the type of questions I asked in that thread, which is still there for all to see.

Now just to set your picture shtrait, I acually happen to be unfortunatly everything but innocent in any way, shape or form, the only thing I could just about say I did not do is, what would halachickly be considerd as biah. In fact I could probably have said the above lines when I was 14!

The impresions I gave in the above post were lies.

As you are reading you are probably thinking 'well, why the hell would he do such a thing?'

My answee is as follows, it was/is part of my sexual addiction-I get a certain thrill out of fantasizing about a struggling helpless kid who is just begining to mature etc, only I had to be over 14 inorder to get in.

As ironic as it may seem, yes! I was indeed using - of of all the dirty sites out there - this site the site made to help people break their addiction, to accomadate part of my addiction!

I owe an appolagy to everyone on this site for abusing it. I hope you will fogive me before RH.

The truth is that I have known this site for a number of years now only I didn't pay it much attention, however once I started spending more time on the site inorder to keep up with my thread I was meanwhile inspired to start using the site properly.

=====

Re: Confesion: The real me!!
Posted by 14 - 02 Sep 2010 14:46

1daat,

I understand your feelings, infact anyone here may feel a sence of reluctance to trust me now, of course if I were you I would feel cheated and would therefore be carefull to trust with caution.

I'm not going to try and prove that I'm 16 etc, simply because I can't!

Anyone who does not trust me, again, I understand and I don't take offense.

As for my English I've read a fair amount, and besides- check out my spelling, or lack thereof.

=====

Re: Confesion: The real me!!
Posted by silentbattle - 02 Sep 2010 20:09

To a certain extent, trust needs to be earned. Some people will trust you now, some people may need some time. But no matter what, one thing is for certain - we all care about you here, and we all want you to grow, and will share in your happiness as you do so.

=====

=====