So here goes my story:

I'm a 25-yr-old Chasidish brooklyn Yingerman with 3 kids. I was first introduced to filth when I was in Yeshivah and a friend told me he wanted to show me something. He then proceeded to produce 3 * magazines from his bag. Although I knew I was doing something I shouldn't do, it was too late; my eyes were riveted. It all spiraled out of control from there, and here I am 8 years later, trying to free myself from the shackles of this monster. I consider myself spiritually inclined, and clearly this is the greatest detriment to my spiritual aspirations. Just recently, I was on a spiritual high for a couple of days, where I felt that I was invincible, that the YH can't touch me with my current approach to Avdus Hashem. But as is usually the case, the Yetzer Hara reared his ugly head last night and this morning -- practically out of nowhere -- and I'm back to square one.

I hope that with the help of Hashem's loving grace, and with the GYE community's support, I'll be able to beat this Yetzer Hara into submission.

Be blessed and shteig away!!!

Yours truly,

Eved Hashem (wannabe)

Dear Eved,

As you will, b'Ezras Hashem learn, this y"h cannot be beaten the way you can beat the opposing team in sports. That's because it's stronger than we are. That's not to say that addicts have an excuse for continuing their addictive behavior. They don't. With the appropriate motivation and methods, these behaviors can be kept in check, one day at a time.
