

Dvar torah

Posted by shmulke - 17 Apr 2015 12:36

Just wondering If someone could help support me a short and sweet dvar torah for this week or a couple of them them thanks it would keep my week ahead of me going thanks so much would really appreciate it. or people can email me at shmulke745@gmail.com

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah

Posted by Machshovo Tova - 17 Apr 2015 14:51

I once saw a good vort on this week's Parsha (Shemini). When Moshe reprimanded the children of Aharon it says: And Moshe was angry at Elazar and Isamar, and he said "Why didn't you eat the Chatas etc." The roshei teivos (first letters) of the words (10:17) "madua lo achaltem es hachatas bimkom hakodesh" are "molei ahavah". Although Moshe sounded outwardly angry in his rebuke, it was however full of love. This teaches us that even if we need to criticize our children, students etc., our inner feeling must be full of love.

Shabbat Shalom

MT

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah

Posted by shomer bro - 17 Apr 2015 16:23

I thought of a pshat to why the kosher animals need to chew their cud: The saying goes that we are what we eat. We are affected on a physical and spiritual way by the things we eat. So, an animal chews its cud. This could represent being given something to think about or to "chew" on. If a person just takes and chews and swallows information or concepts in life, like the animal that doesn't chew its cud, then he won't go far. But if one thinks over ideas that he's presented with, and chews on it for a long time a few times, then he'll be able to get the most out of it. We shouldn't take what we're told by people for granted and correct. We must chew on it and understand it for ourselves.

=====
=====

Looking for support
Posted by shmulke - 09 Jun 2015 14:45

I need Help i am have been Having slips and watching p lately and its really stressing me out i keep thinking about girls and women and i don't have control over my money and i need to get a filter on my computer and my phone and i don't have money to pay for one i don't know what to do it's really frustrating me at the moment someone please help me thank you.

=====
=====

Re: Looking for support
Posted by cordnoy - 09 Jun 2015 14:52

did you ever call tag?

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah
Posted by shmulke - 09 Jun 2015 14:53

Whats that i don't know what that is

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah
Posted by cordnoy - 09 Jun 2015 14:56

Well then you haven't tried squat!

just look on the home page over here and guidebook for filters.

just do any internet search (which it sounds like youre quite capable of) for filters jewish tag; maybe it will come up even without the "jewish."

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah
Posted by shmulke - 09 Jun 2015 17:40

I called veinishmertem and they said I have to pay for a filter and I am being honest I don't have money to pay for one so I am stuck

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah
Posted by shmulke - 09 Jun 2015 17:51

What's vch stand for and what should I say to them exactly

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah
Posted by shmulke - 09 Jun 2015 19:06

What's vcf stand for

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah
Posted by Gevura Shebyesod - 09 Jun 2015 19:12

VCF is the name of the filter that Venishmartem installs. If you explain your situation they will give you a break on the price.

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah
Posted by shmulke - 09 Jun 2015 19:19

They will give me a break on a price I said I don't have money to pay no money I can't pay for it

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah
Posted by pischoshelmachat - 09 Jun 2015 19:55

Shmulke,

From where do you have internet access? Why do you even need internet access? Do you need it for your work?

Why not get rid of your access completely? If your wife needs it for work, ask her to lock her computer so you cannot even log on. Why do you need to be on the computer at all?

If you think it is embarrassing to tell your wife that you want to be extra careful so she should lock her computer, think about how it would feel to get caught.

I don't know your specific circumstance so all my suggestions might be irrelevant.

But I was caught and I wish I would have asked my wife to lock my computer and hold the lock code.

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah
Posted by hwhap@gmx.com - 09 Jun 2015 21:14

Did they give you a choice of different products? Did you get a good understanding of the product or products? And how much does it cost?

=====
=====

Re: Dvar torah

Posted by graftedIn2Judah - 10 Jun 2015 14:18

Schmulke,

I might add to the suggestions that been given by asking if you are apart of an accountability group here on GYE. The accountability groups here have been a huge helper for many of us. Similarly, have you started the 12 step method, or the 20 progressive tools? I have discovered that #s 8 and 10 of the tools have helped me incredibly.

guardyoureyes.com/the-gye-program/20-tools

Let us know where you are in all of this, in order that we can help you.

PM me if you need personal accountability, but I suggest trying the group as well.

Blessings

=====
=====