Welcome.

I'm not entirely sure about the purpose of your posts, but let me explain what GYE is all about.

GYE is a website that provides tools to help overcome struggles. It's a place to share our struggles with others, make connections, and keep a journal for accountability, validation, and support. It's a place of hope and optimism, where we believe that recovery is possible, and we can achieve our goals using the resources available to us, such as "Flight to Freedom," the book "The Battle of the Generation," mentors, and friendships.

The website can be complicated for newcomers (although I see you've been registered for a while), don't fret, just open a thread to share your story and ideas (no need for more than one thread). You'll feel welcomed and supported by friends and like-minded people as you navigate your path to freedom.

Some of it was, and much of it wasn't, for me.
