Since the GYE forum hit 20,000 posts on September 29, 2009, there has been a real explosion! We are now up to 97,685 posts and counting! That's an average of 138 posts per day since we reached the 20,000 milestone. At this rate, we will, b'Ezras Hashem, reach 100,000 posts by around the first week of May.

Yes but if you eliminate all those stupid posts from the "Just Saying Hi" thread and the "We Love the Heiliger Guard" thread we would lose about 50,000 posts.

The lesson to be learned is - keep on posting!

That calculation might have to be adjusted due to the occurrence of Pesach, Which will probably hinder most peoples posting efforts for about 10-12 days.

That's why I said the first week of May. Otherwise, I think May 1st would be the estimated date. People do post on Chol Hamoed, so it's not quite 10-12 days that will be affected.

We wouldn't want to eliminate THESE POSTS from the "We Love the Heiliger Guard" thread:

I've been thinking, maybe Guard isn't so bad after all...

And besides he's much better then kedusha!

Hey how did I miss this thread? TY Uri.

Count me in.

Btw one thing we don't give him credit for(besides our lives) is that he's actually very funny.

Anyway we are proud to have him as the head nut on the funny farm the current count is 98,013. With this post it will be 98014.

What prize do we get for #100,000 ?

Can we auction it off?

Can we be mecahbeid RGuard shlita with the kavod?

Mybe R Twersky should have the honor?

(can i steal it)
