

Additional tools for recovery

Posted by Eye.nonymous - 07 Dec 2011 21:33

I attended an SA workshop with lots and lots of tools for recovery (about 100 or so). I hope, little by little, to share them here on this thread.

Some of them are very simple and might even seem silly (but may surprise you--and work if you try them), and some of them are very deep. Some of them you may have heard of before, and some of them not.

Take whatever you find helpful, and leave the rest--maybe someone else will find it helpful. I can't say that I have tested them all personally, either.

I posted this on Jan 1, '12, but thought it would be appropriate to add it here at the beginning of this thread, too:

I could have easily cut and paste the whole list of recovery tools into a post all at once and left it at that. However, I thought that by posting only one each day, it would give people a better chance to digest them and implement them (and remember them) to some extent in their lives. Also, in posting one at a time, I see it is giving me a chance to reflect on each of these tools and appreciate them much more.

So, if you are joining this thread now that so many of these tools have already been posted (and more yet to come, BE"H), I suggest you will have the greatest benefit by reading this thread slowly, just one or two tools each day. There's no hurry.

174. SA and Recovery Audio Recordings

Here's a huge stash (hundreds of recordings) at these two links:

SA Recordings

Daily Reprieve

And I'd like to point out two specific sets of recordings:

175. Back to Basics

This is a recording of four one-hour sessions which covers all twelve steps. It's very straightforward and very practical.

176. Big Book on Audio

This is an audio recording of the Big Book.

that's amazing, K9 doesn't let me on those sites, because they are storing potentially porn images and videos. Cute, ha?

That's interesting. I have k9 and although some of the files were blocked, I was still able to download at least 90% of them.

No, it doesn't even let me on the page. Perhaps my wife put some extra boundaries when she set the filter up.

its all good

Blocked for me too. It's in the open image/media search category, which is blocked by default.

Maybe you can get whoever holds your password to temporarily whitelist it just so you can d/l the SA stuff.

Just PM Eye and he'll send them to you. With an anonymous Gmail account you get 5GB (that's right GB) free storage on Google Drive to share files as big as they come.

Sorry, but these files take up about 6GIG. In order to get the space I need, I'll need 12 volunteers to do join me on DropBox. You'll have to do the following:

1. You have to NOT have DropBox installed on your computer already.
1. Send me a PM with the E-mail address you intend to use for Dropbox.
Then, I'll send you an invitation to join Dropbox.
2. If you accept the invitation AND install Dropbox on your computer (using the same E-mail which received the invitation), we each get free bonus space (500megs).

If I get 12 people to join me in this, I'll have enough extra space to make these files available (I already use DropBox for other purposes, so I can't use the space I've already got for this).

If I don't, I wont.

177. Al-Anon prayer

I cannot control or change my friends or loved ones, so I release them into Your care for Your loving hands to do with as You will. Just keep me loving and free from judging them. If they need changing, God, You'll have to do it; I can't. Just make me willing and ready to be of service to You, to have my shortcomings removed, and to do my best.

One of the most painful aspects of recovery is seeing our own lives improve while yet seeing other people who are so near and or dear to us who could benefit so much from what we have gained. However, they remain either unable or unwilling to follow a similiar path.

All we can do is change ourselves. We cannot change our wives, our parents, our children, our siblings, our friends, or our neighbors. A big part of recovery is being able to accept other people for who they are, and to focus only on cleaning up our own side of the street. Sometimes someone does walk into the doors of recovery, and we help them for a while, but then they leave and slide further and faster downhill. That is the most painful, I think. But, you can't help someone who doesn't want to be helped. Along the road to recovery I think we will find opportunities to help people who need help and want it, and when those opportunities come along we should hope they should be obvious to us. If we need to force anything, we're probably putting our efforts somewhere where they are not welcome.

Also, as radical as this statement may be, it may very well be that the road to recovery you have found is not necessarily the same road that other people need to take.

"Love and tolerance for all is our code." It has to be, otherwise we'll go crazy.

Thank you all for being a part of this thread. Here's the complete summary (I made a link to each section, and to specific resources when a link was available):

ADDITIONAL TOOLS FOR RECOVERY

IMPROVE RELATION WITH SELF

EMERGENCY TOOLS

1. Short prayer, "I'm powerless, please G-d help me!"
2. Move somewhere else. (Get away from the trigger!)
3. Pick up litter.
4. Sing (or hum) a favorite tune. Or listen to music.
5. Call someone from the program or the forum NOW. (Or post)
5. Get to a meeting AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. (Get to the forum)
6. When you're angry: Ask yourself, "What am I ashamed of right now?"

HAVING A PROGRAM

7. Participate in the fellowship of the program.
8. Take the Step Zero questionnaire.
9. Admit complete defeat.
10. Answer the 20 Questions found in the White Book (pg 8).
11. Get a sponsor.
12. Treat your sponsor's suggestions as orders.
13. Work the steps (all 12 of them!).
14. Have a daily program (but not one's own).
15. Read the "Just for Today" card every morning.

16. Live in the solution (and not in the problem).

MEETINGS

- 17. Don't lust, and go to meetings.
- 18. Home group.

This is something else. Yasher koichacho!

I have no doubt that if I and everyone else follow this action plan, we'll stay sober for a very long time.

I managed to put some of the files in DropBox so far (but I can't add much more without your help).

Try these links and let me know if you can access them (probably best to SAVE TARGET AS):

(I tried to shrink the files, but couldn't manage without the quality getting really bad).
