AS SOON AS I TRIED TO TALK BOOM!! MEETING BUSY CANT TALK

Reminds me of a cute and powerful story: A man comes home from work late, tired and irritated, to find his 5-year old son waiting with enthusiasm for him at the door. As soon as the father entered into his house, his son looked at his face to see if his father is in a good mood. When he made sure that he was quite okay, the son said, "Daddy, may I ask you a question?" The father replied without hesitation, but with unattractive tone, "Yeah sure, what it is?" Any way, the son asked his father, "Daddy, how much do you make an hour?" The father replied impatiently with anger and loud noise. "That is none of your business. Why do you ask such a thing?" The son did not give up and replied, "I just want to know. Please tell me, how much do you make an hour?" The father calmed down a little bit and said, "If you must know, I make $20.00 an hour." The little boy replied, with his head down, "Oh, Daddy, may I please borrow $10.00 from you?" At this time the father was furious, but did not have any idea about the intention of the child. The father said again with anger, "If the only reason you asked that is so you can borrow some money from me to buy a silly toy or some other nonsense, then you march yourself straight to your room and go to bed. Think about why you are being so selfish.

Remember I work hard everyday not to satisfy for such childish behavior." The little boy quietly went to his room and shut the door. Though the little boy knows that his father loves him, he was not happy with the spontaneous reaction of his father about his request.

Finally, the father sat down on his chair and started to get even angrier about the little boy's questions. In his mind he kept asking how he dares to ask such questions only to get some money. After about an hour or two, the father had calmed down, and started to think and put things in perspective. After he came back to his full senses, he said to himself, “Maybe there was something he really needed to buy with that $10.00. After all, he really does not ask for money very often”. The father went to the little boy's room. After knocking he opened the door and asked the little boy, "Are you asleep, son?" The little boy patiently replied "No daddy, I'm awake." The father said calmly, "I have been thinking, maybe I was too hard on you earlier. It has been a long day and I took out my aggravation on you. Here is the $10.00 you asked for." The little boy sat straight up, happy and smiling and he yelled, "Oh, thank you daddy!" Then, reaching under his pillow, he pulled out some crumpled-up bills. The father saw that the little boy already had some money and he started to get angry again. The little boy slowly counted out his money, and then looked up at his father, but the father grumbled, "Why do you want more money if you already have some?" The little boy replied, "Because I didn't have enough, but now I do." The little boy added, "Daddy, I have $20.00 now. Can I buy an hour of your time?"
