Pages 379-381

Even if it was our fault that we brought the challenges upon ourselves, that does not take away at all from anything we accomplish (in Hashem's eyes). These accomplishments are just as great as if we did not contribute to the level of difficulty.

Thursday: Pages 389-392

“In the next world, Hashem’s perspective on what is impressive will be clear to all. At that point, everyone will view life the way Hashem does. As a result, every person, whether they respected those who were flashy and cool or those who looked so religious, will respect only those who put in effort in the face of difficulty. By fighting in the most difficult battle ever, we guarantee that we will be highly regarded in the next world by everyone, including those who look down on us now.”

Congratulations on finishing the book! Chazak chazak venischazeik!

Even though we will not be continuing this thread, please consider accepting on yourself bli neder to read for 3 minutes every night for the zechus of our brothers in Israel until the war is over. Thank you.

I would like to join but the first time I started 3 pages was too fast and eventually I fell behind, can we maybe make a slower cycle this time? like the amud yomi.

Something like 2 pages a day, and one day a week to catch up for any missed days?

Okay. So 2 pages a day (beli neder), with a weekly schedule put up on Motzai Shabbos. Is anyone else interested? So we can make this thread be an active one, where people discuss the ideas or put down their favorite quotes. Please let us know.
