

Blackberry Filter?

Posted by Stuart - 14 May 2010 03:53

Is anyone aware of any filters available for blackberry's and if there any good?

=====
=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by bardichev - 14 May 2010 04:59

Jnet. Ppl say its really good. The set up is a little tricky.

=====
=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by briut - 11 Jun 2010 16:33

How about anyone who knows from browser problems on a Pocket PC. I used to be able to get the text of GYE on my Treo (WM 5.0, 240x240), but the new site must have things formatted differently. Each post comes as 1/2 character wide and 100 lines long, so I can't read anything.

Any eitzas, all you techies? Thanks in advance. - Briut

=====
=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by bardichev - 13 Jun 2010 16:50

treo is soooooo 2008

join the world get a blackberry its great you can use it in shul or when you chazzer with your kids

you can use it while you are consuling a doctor a rav a parent its a great invention you can sleep with it always its a fantastic thing

its muttar to take it into a bais hakkesay

oh i forgot so many other uses perfect for chuppas levayas and shiva calls

oh your kids will think you are sooo cool

your pants will shake

you can txt people in real time and have hugely intelligent converastion

lihe

hi howaya u k

ttyl

this message was delivered via blackberry messenger

[u]Moderator's note[/u]: For anyone who doesn't know Bards, this post was clearly written "tongue in cheek".

=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?
Posted by briut - 14 Jun 2010 03:27

Thanks, Bards.

Wow. A blackberry. Yeah. Then, all I'd have to do is:

add a touchscreen.

and effective multitasking of programs.

and calendars that sync with my desktop's Outlook without a hiccup.

and, of course, update the email from like the mainframe days and...

I'd have a Treo, circa 2008.

Pity the choices are few:

- 1) iphone and pay at&t $120 for what Sprint gives me for $30.
- 2) get android and let Google record everything from your wifi data to the length of your erect .
(Do they use GPS for that??)
- 3) Nokia symbian and pretend you've never visited the US.

Maybe it's time to go off the grid completely. Oy.

Still, if anyone can fix my screen problem for gye, I'd be grateful.

-- Sent by my Carrier Pigeon.

=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by jewinpain - 16 Jun 2010 21:00

bards u killed me with ur post ;D

back to topic, Jnet mobile works only if u got Enterprise solution with your carrier, thats why i cant put it up on my BB, cuz its gana be $15 bucks more for the enterprise + $6 for Jnet, nah thats too much already, besides that i dont trust Jnet that i will have to whom to speak in time of need, had them 4 years ago they were NUTS

=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by bardichev - 16 Jun 2010 21:01

jewinpain wrote on 16 Jun 2010 21:00:

bards u killed me with ur post ;D

back to topic, Jnet mobile works only if u got Enterprise solution with your carrier, thats why i cant put it up on my BB, cuz its gana be $15 bucks more for the enterprise + $6 for Jnet, nah thats too much already, besides that i dont trust Jnet that i will have to whom to speak in time of need, had them 4 years ago they were NUTS

ICH BIN FUNNI

JIP SHUD I HANG THIS POST IN SHEEL?

=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by jewinpain - 18 Jun 2010 17:05

depends which shul u belong, some shuls will take ur BB & throw u out, some will take u & throw ur BB out, so u gota know ur options b4 hand

=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by Stuart - 13 Jul 2010 17:56

Back to the original topic -

I was in touch with K9 and they said they are working on some filter for blackberries, but have no timeline when it would be ready.

Someone suggested to me Crackutil. Its an application that removes the browser from your blackberry. Suposedly everything still works including email and other pre-set internet sites. Personally I am having some technically difficulties, though. Anyone else know anything about this?

=====
=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by Holy Yid - 18 Jul 2010 18:23

Bards you rock. These days the philosophy is "I blackberry therefor I am".

Regarding filters I think there is webchaver for smartphones. also do a search on this site I know iphone and other smartphones have filter options. Also I did a quick web search and found this forum.brighthand.com/treo-600/210839-treo-600-web-content-filter.html

=====
=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by Stuart - 18 Jul 2010 19:53

Smartphones and Iphones are different than Blackberry's. I did do a bit of research and aside from crackutil (which aint working for me) there doesn't seem to be any filters out there yet for a blackberry.

=====
=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by Holy Yid - 18 Jul 2010 22:20

If you think you can be honest you can get a partner and send him a list of every site you went on.

Also if you only need email get a peek and avoid the danger www.getpeek.com You acn also get it on amazon.com

=====
=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by Stuart - 19 Jul 2010 00:07

How do you get a list to send to every site you went to?

=====
=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by Holy Yid - 19 Jul 2010 01:46

The only fashion way, you write it down. Also I think your phone carrier can provide one, call and check.

=====
=====

Re: Blackberry Filter?

Posted by frumfiend - 19 Jul 2010 23:06

[quote="Briut" link=topic=2339.msg70420#msg70420 date=1276486028]

Thanks, Bards.

Wow. A blackberry. Yeah. Then, all I'd have to do is:

add a touchscreen.

and effective multitasking of programs.

and calendars that sync with my desktop's Outlook without a hiccup.

and, of course, update the email from like the mainframe days

and...

I'd have a Treo, circa 2008.

Pity the choices are few:

1) iphone and pay at

=====

=====