

Questions about filters

Posted by Me3 - 17 Nov 2010 15:14

---

How do you add a website for k9 to block if you don't have thr password?

=====

=====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by Kedusha - 17 Nov 2010 15:21

---

Who does have the password? If it's the filter gabai, contact him.

I ask my wife to type in the password, I make the changes, then I log out.

=====

=====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by Me3 - 17 Nov 2010 15:34

---

No other way?

=====

=====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by Kedusha - 17 Nov 2010 15:40

---

Whose e-mail address is associated with your K9 license?

=====

=====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by ZemirosShabbos - 17 Nov 2010 15:49

---

if, for whatever reason, you do not have access to the password, you might be able to install another filter (openDNS, SafeEyes or something) on top of K9 and then configure it to block whatever you want to block and then give the password to someone or keep the password on the other side of town or in a safe deposit box or something just putting out the idea, i do not know if having two filters would cause the machine to discombobulate or not

=====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by installed - 17 Nov 2010 19:06

---

=====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by Me3 - 18 Nov 2010 17:09

---

By the way I forgot to thank Kedusha for demonstrating his overwhelming Jewishness by answering my every question with a question.

(I had more to write but you would accuse me of Onoas devarim and stuff).

=====

Re: Questions about filters

discombobulate - nice word of the day
Posted by Kedusha - 18 Nov 2010 17:19

---

Did I really do that? ;D

=====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by oisvorf - 18 Nov 2010 20:45

---

Related question about filters - i have K9 on my computer, but my teenage son uses ***** to get around it. Anyone know how to block that?

Shmendrick

[Moderator's note: Removed name of this illicit program to avoid giving it any free publicity! ;)]

=====

=====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by Kedusha - 18 Nov 2010 21:23

---

If you have Windows Vista or later, make sure that your son does not have an administrator account for his desktop, and then you can set up parental controls for his individual desktop.

Also, tell him that all Internet access is being monitored, and make sure to review your daily eBlaster (or similar) report.

=====

=====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by installed - 18 Nov 2010 21:26

---

Hey,

My filter blocks *****. I'm sure that you just need to change the settings. It blocks ***** because it is classified as Proxy Avoidance Computers / Internet

=====

====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by jewinpain - 18 Nov 2010 21:33

---

i Agree with installed, in the k9 setting u can check off the box next to Proxy avoidance & this should hopefully do it

=====
====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by Kedusha - 18 Nov 2010 21:52

---

Great solution!

There has to be a special room in the hot place for the inventors of any technology that tries to
> >

=====
====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by frumfiend - 14 Dec 2010 04:49

---

filter or monitoring for andoid?

=====
====

Re: Questions about filters

Posted by bardichev - 22 Dec 2010 00:03

---

Does anyone know of an app or a filter that can block youtube from blackberry?

=====
====

