Well....in that sense your right....but in regards to keeping our focus on recovery from our addiction we should "keep it in sight, and in our mind"

We ate by my mom this shabbos and my 5 year old daughter was counting the steps to the upstairs. She came running to the table to announce.....

. Someone at the table asked "in what, AA"? I was thinking, no in SA .

some people thought the point was to make us out of our mind

AND TO GET US TO READ JABBERWOCKY

i set regular reminders on my cell phone to coincide with certain times of day when i am likely to encounter extra challenges. It buzzes and i look down, all it says is GYE, and poof the challenge is eased, i smile and go vieter, proceeding with caution as always Hatzlacha in all things GOOD.

I was at a couple of Simchos this weekend, and at each I searched in vain for the Woodford (I always look for it, but then I'm too scared to take any, what if someone notices and realizes the significance?). But at each simcha I found another bourbon, which said on the label that it was made in "Bardstown KY 40004".

So I made a silent L'Chaim for the Rebbe (Sheyachzor Veyisgale Lonu Bimheiro Biyomeinu Omain!!!) and his holy ~~truckers~~ Chassidim. I hope nobody overheard as I whispered "Keep on Trucking...."

BTW that sounds like the perfect name for the GYE musical group we were going to form.
"Rebbe Bards and the Holy Truckers Band".

Here's the lineup so far:

Vocals - Zemmy

Guitar - TehillimZugger

Drums - Gibbor120

Pyrotechnic effects - Noorah

anyone else?

We've got plenty of trucks to shlep our gear around, and I have a tour bus, thanks to Alex.

;D ;D ;D ;D ;D ;D ;D ;D
