

O'Mottel's Kitchen

Posted by obormottel - 02 Nov 2011 23:29

It seems that a lot of us here suffer from malnutrition, which tends to bring about depression and other machlas of the mind. I mean, how are you gonna feel good about yourself, when you're 30 pounds overweight, and you don't even have an excuse of a recent pregnancy?

So pile in, and if you're sick of cholint and kishke, I'll set you up with a nutritious meal that is inexpensive and good for you at the same.

Oh, and we do give out complimentary drink tickets to Bardy's Pub with each meal. You may have to check with Bards, though, if he'll honor them for anything other than a shot of Crapowitz.

I was busy in a [I don't know how else to call it]-measuring contest with someone in the GYE Universe, and missed BOT's ode.

It is very good! At first I started singing it to the tune of "Zeide" (Zeide made us laugh, zeide made us sing....) but then it's gotten away from me.

I also noticed that while cholent lament recieved some nice reviews, I haven't gotten even one ROFL, which made me think people react more positively to expressions of love, not of hate. (Note to self: more love, less hate).

And lastly, the ode is a pure artist's rendering because in real life my chlnt sucked this week.

so there. And it's not just this week, buddy, I'm sure of it.

Also, because of short winter Fridays, the kitchen hours are now Sun thru Thur.

Eat a half-pint of cottage cheese with tortilla chips on Fridays, it'll carry you over till kiddush.

i'm all for more love and less hate but just for the record, the lament did have me ROFL, and i posted something to that effect and i also printed it out (along with the ode) and gave it to my wife with the clear exhortation that should she ever feel the need to overcome an addiction this is the clear remedy

I'm amazed that my cholent ode has made it to sober ears. Of course that inspires me to think about the many volumes and volumes of cholent odeas I could do. I wonder if artscroll would print it. Oh... Who cares. These days you just put your stuff online and eventually some sick puppy comes along and likes it.

So ode to cholent, ode to frickasee. Ode to sloppe joes, I shant forget thee.

Nuff ode... I'm tired. *nite fellows.

My wife is out-of-town, so I'm a single father for a week.

Last night's supper:

Rye bread, thinly sliced smoked turkey breast, tomatoes, cucumbers, onions, pickles, canned corn, avocado.

Assembled into sandwiches by participants. Toasted Garlic Mayo, Ketchup, Mustard.

The baby got to bite from everyone's sammich, so I think she was full, too.

Tonight is pizza night (just to show the kids that I am a benevolent father), and then we'll fire up the fireplace and play checkers and eat soft chocolate-chip cookies and milk.

By the way, you want a good pizza recipe?

1. 1 phone
2. 1 phone book (this is an old joke, ok?)

Directions:

Look up your local pizza shop in the phone book.

Dial the number and order delivery. Don't limit yourself when ordering toppings. They love it when you go: "Do you have sauteed onion? How about garlic? And mushrooms? Olives? Black or green? Is it extra? Oh, never mind then."

Enjoy.

Six-pack of Miller High Life is optional, but it is recommended.

sounds yummy and benevolent

BOT, maybe we need an ode to pizza

lemme try

if it's got

when it's hot

with a garlic knot

it hits the spot

with cheese and ketchy

nice and stretchy

basil and oregano

dinja know?

some silver foil

to catch the oil

diet soda's a must

or the belt will bust

if you ate a ton

when you're done

go to Mum

for a Tum

Hey, are we allowed to have odes to cholint and pizza in the same kitchen?

Guard, we need another mechtiza! ;D ;D
