The NUDNIK asks #1

We all know what a nudnik is! The shlemiel is the one who spills the soup on the shlemazal, the

Well the nudnik is back with another question: you know the term "your splitting hairs" or "hair splitting", what is it referring to?

Is it referring to the process of splitting a bunch of hairs from each other, to single out one pure strand?

Or is it referring to (an even more difficult task) the process of attempting to split the actual single strand of hair, into two?
nudnik wants to know what kind of soup it was!

All nudniks and nudnik sympathizers, are welcome to address this question, as well as use this thread to post questions of similar style and importance! :-D

All u nudniks who are scared to come out the closet, can just post as nudnik sympathizers ;-)

... and do "words" like LOL and OMG count as one word or 3?

well LOL can possibly be one since some people say "loll" however OMG memah nafshach is two words, either oh my gosh, or "oh em gee".

OH, and for posting, is each time that somebody reads the post considered as if it was said again? (I think that's the end of my posting career)

This is starting to be fun

So now the shaylah is, assuming that you indeed shorten someones life by reading their posts do you have a din rodef?

and then, if you see someone about to read another's post, go ahead, and read his post, and certainly, if hes about to read your post hoebout if you write something in somebody else's name?

I've been wondering lately, Why is it that the "Just having Fun" section has become so much less popular than when I first joined?

I had a havah aminah, that we're having so much fun everywhere else, therefore we don't need any seperate fun.

But this past week I saw on the "Recent Topics" page that there were three or four threads with that big depressing sideways frown face on them, so lechoirah it can't be that there is that much fun going on.

So then the other tzad would be that we're all so depressed that we're not interested in having fun.....but that's too scary to accept.

L'maaseh I'm stuck with a tzarich iyun.....
