

On This Day...

Posted by pleasehelp9753 - 05 May 2013 16:13

Just a place to post random things that happened on this day... (it keeps me busy when im

So.... on this day in 1904 (May 5th)... Cy Young threw the first Perfect Game in Modern American Baseball online, and it keeps me away from researching "other" things)

=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by zvi - 06 May 2013 01:14

Here's another one- the Moslems recapture the city of Acre from the Christians in 1291. (Talk about random... :-D)

=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by Gevura Shebyesod - 06 May 2013 01:48

Lets not forget the Mexicans. They hate mayonnaise, so when a shipload of the stuff was lost at sea they declared a holiday known as "Sinko de Mayo"

=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by reallygettingthere - 06 May 2013 02:48

Gevura Shebyesod wrote:

Lets not forget the Mexicans. They hate mayonnaise, so when a shipload of the stuff was lost at sea they declared a holiday known as "Sinko de Mayo"

That is probably the absolutely most corniest joke I've ever heard in all the gilgulim that I've been alive.

=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by Gevura Shebyesod - 06 May 2013 07:43

=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by pleasehelp9753 - 06 May 2013 10:12

The German zeppelin Hindenburg caught fire and was destroyed while trying to land at Lakehurst Naval Air Station in New Jersey, killing over 30 people on board.

=====

That's what I said when i first heard it too

Re: On This Day...
Posted by pleasehelp9753 - 06 May 2013 14:51

...In 1937, the German zeppelin Hindenburg caught fire and was destroyed while trying to land at Lakehurst Naval Air Station in New Jersey, killing over 30 people on board.

BTW, even though it was known to be a symbol of Nazi dominance, the owner and builder of the Hindenburg was actually anti-Nazi. The Nazi party leaders wanted to call it the Adolf Hitler, but he quickly called it the Hindenburg after the late Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg, who was a German WWI War hero and President of Germany before Hitler took over.

Still, the Nazis managed to use the Hindenburg to their advantage, Seizing the Hindenburg and plastering it with Nazi symbols and dropping Propaganda Leaflets from it.

It was destroyed in an explosion from a single spark which ignited the extremely flammable hydrogen gas which the Hindenburg used for lift. (Helium was extremely rare and expensive in those days)

=====
=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by pleasehelp9753 - 06 May 2013 14:53

by the way, that happened on May 18th.... not the 5th

=====
=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by pleasehelp9753 - 06 May 2013 14:54

zvi wrote:

Here's another one- the Moslems recapture the city of Acre from the Christians in 1291. (Talk about random... :-D)

BTW, that happened on May 18th... not the 5th

=====
=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by pleasehelp9753 - 07 May 2013 16:20

...in 1915, The German submarine U-20 torpedoed and sank the British ocean liner RMS Lusitania killing 1,198 on board.

This lead to the American intervention into WWI as many American citizens were on board

=====
=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by jewish jew - 07 May 2013 21:08

Pleasehelp9753 I see you read the Zman magazine of Pesach (I think it was Pesach), that had a whole article about the Hindenburg.

=====

=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by jewish jew - 07 May 2013 21:10

en.wikipedia.org/wiki/May_7

=====

=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by pleasehelp9753 - 07 May 2013 21:10

actually, its called wikipedia

=====

=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by pleasehelp9753 - 08 May 2013 22:21

... in 1945, The German Army now under the Flensburg Government which took over after Hitler committed suicide on April 30th, officially surrendered to the Allied Powers in Berlin. This marked the official end to World War 2 in Europe, though the war lasted a few more months in the Pacific against Japan.

Today is known as V-E Day for "Victory in Europe Day"

=====

=====

Re: On This Day...

Posted by pleasehelp9753 - 16 May 2013 22:44

on this day of the jewish calendar, according to some, was Kabolas Hatorah (dont ask me why in Israel they only hold one day which was yesterday) Dovid Hamelech was Niftar, and according to some, The Baal Shem Tov was also Niftar.

On this day of the secular calendar, American physicist Theodore Maiman operated the first working laser.

=====

=====