Yawn.

Was a tough bean soaking day, especially all that work keeping the Bissli and the swiss cheese separate.

Whoever said it's easy being a kashrut mashgiach?

So after eating fruits for three days (and some swiss PARVE chocolate), We're home for BTW, if anybody else makes fancy salmon that the rebetzin makes in the shteeble, heres a little tip: first preheat the oven to 500, put the salmon in for 10 minutes, and then lower the oven to 350 for another 10 minutes. The high heat in the beginning sears the outside of the fish, so that it doesnt dry out when baked through.

Another new thing we had this week, was grilled vegetable salad, Hot grilled veggies, with regular salad mix. Also a special dressing that the rebbe isnt privy to its recipe, sorry.

And we of course had tomato dip for TZ
