

Looking back on life and saying "I WISH I HAD...."

Posted by Joenoa - 13 Mar 2014 20:22

---

This is my life every day. I have a list of like 75 things that I wish I had and things that I regret. This truly is the saddest. Our brains are wired to think that we will live forever, and when the day comes, I will say that I wish I had done something. Also in the present moment I don't have the guts to do what I really want to do with my life. I know that most people don't have nearly the guts to do what they really wanted to accomplish with their life. I am sick of seeing everyone lie to themselves about that they really want to do in life. They pretend that that's what they really want to do like be married when in reality they would really love to change the world and leave their mark in world history. I'm pretty sure that every single one of you guys would LOVE to leave their mark in world history and be known for Ultimate Greatness, and yet nobody has the guts to achieve it. It is sad. They are thankful with mediocrity. I can never be thankful with mediocrity. I am quite corny and like to think that I am here on this earth for Ultimate greatness, but I'm scared of Ultimate greatness and I probably will never achieve it, and neither will the majority of people on this earth. Don't mean to be very pessimistic, but it's true...

=====

=====

Re: Looking back on life and saying

Posted by shomer bro - 21 May 2014 04:00

---

No! You're put on this world to become the best YOU that you can be! Whatever you do in life, if it's done with all your best, you will have achieved greatness. I think it's a common error to assume that only those that become famous, and "live the life" are considered to be successful in life. This is so untrue! You're measured not based on what everyone else may be, but rather what you can be. You have so much potential, it's unfathomable! You can do whatever you want to do if you put your spirit in it. You can do anything in life! You want ultimate greatness? Become the best that YOU can be, and the satisfaction that will result will be ultimate greatness, because then yiu will have achieved it. It's all a matter of mind set. You can do it! Forget what everyone else is happy with! You're not happy with mediocrity? Great! You have what it takes to go places, and accomplish things. Scared? Of what? Of becoming the best YOU that you can be?! We can all achieve ultimate greatness, but it takes working on.

=====

=====

Re: Looking back on life and saying

Posted by Joenoahi - 27 May 2014 07:39

---

isn't iot hard to live in a society where everyone values men based on how many girls he has slept with.

=====

====

Re: Looking back on life and saying
Posted by cordnoy - 27 May 2014 18:05

---

Thank God the people in my real world don't live like that.

b'hatzlachah

=====

====

Re: Looking back on life and saying
Posted by Machshovo Tova - 27 May 2014 18:06

---

GYE is a society that values people based on their sincere will to stay sober.

Isn't that great?!

MT

=====

====

Re: Looking back on life and saying
Posted by shomer bro - 28 May 2014 21:33

---

As Jews, we actually place our wives on a pedestal in the way we're supposed to honor them. It's in the goyish world that they view women as something to conquer and win. Unfortunately, our interaction with the outside world perverts the way we think and act. The trick is to work on cleansing our thoughts, and retraining ourselves in how we should think about everything. It's definitely not easy, but it's all part of spiritual growth which is a lifetime endeavor.

=====

====

Re: Looking back on life and saying
Posted by nitzotzeloki - 29 May 2014 11:03

---

wow this thread is in the 'just having fun' section?

=====

====