Not promising a daily post, but some of these are too gevaldig to keep to myself. Most (if not all) of them are from here <http://www.ivel.com/forum/viewtopic.php?f=3&t=24>

This is very pertinent for me as an addict... The plot does not come with WiFi...

And of course, if one has a new room, one must have appropriate furnishings, so...

Okay. You have a bunch of great mareh mekomos --- where are there instructions on how to post a picture?

As I wrote in a different thread, I admit that I am powerless over using the newfangled forum (and way out of practice in BB code)...

UPDATE: B"h I found the correct command. Let's rock n' roll!

That I'm not a mouse is obvious... there is "an honest mouse" around here somewhere.

But here is the riddle... (that sort of ties into a different thread...)

"You know you've been on GYE too long when..."

You have no problem identifying the creature in EBD's avatar...

Hint: In the old forum, this creature was often the subject of tossing or used for Sabbath headgear.

The guy seems to have some serious Shalom Bayis issues...

Reminds me that I have to get rid of my own resentments... (not that the Eishes Chayil is on my list ch"v... really)

No, he hates his WiFi. Maybe he wishes he had a filter.

Gevaldigg!

The Barditchever (both of them --- the one with a capital B and the one with a lowercase b) certainly have incredible nachas from such a melitzah yesharah!

I didn't chap! The guy wants everyone to know he's addicted so that we can daven for him!

You are too good... I don't know if anyone on I-velt (other than the GYE's that may be members there) could have come up with such a simple, positive explanation of the vanity plate...
