

Why oh why did the addict cross the road?

He wasn't interested in getting to the other side.

In fact he has no idea how he got there.

When he woke up in the morning he definately had no plans of going there.

He had sworn off so many times.

But here he was once again.

To his utter devastation.

And to the dismay of everyone around him.

How many addicts does it take to change a lightbulb?

100 (of course!).

The first 99 get flustered and run away to escape.

Untill one comes along and lights up the path for everyone else...

Only one, But he has to change it every day.

Does he need to do all 12 steps ?
