

The Grouchery: Haven for the Grumpily Disgruntled

Posted by youknowwho - 08 Mar 2024 15:01

Speaking to a few friends offline gave birth to this idea, it seems to be an urgent and immediate necessity.

Welcome to...The Grouchery: Haven for the Grumpily Disgruntled

This thread is a place where one can feel free to rant, vent and gripe.

It is a safe haven for negativity, sourness and blahness.

It is a place where one can be sure to find a healthy dose of demotivating advice. It is a place where any kind of positivity is strictly forbidden.

It is a place where you can vent about what a rotten day you're having and not worry that people will then reach out with concerned pm's/texts...cuz nobody really cares. And that's perfectly fine, why should anybody care?

Please Remember:

-No profanity (Sadly)

-No personal insults (Sadly)

- Absolutely no: Nice, positive, warm, loving, optimistic, motivational, supportive or inspiring posts. (Not sadly)

Enter at your own risk!

Roomates need I say more.

I want to anyways.

I am a clean and tidy person while my roommates has straight up said to me that restaurants only do a full clean on the weekends implying I am a clean freak for expecting him to clean the oil off of the counter after he decided to fry stuff without a cover and the entire counter is covered in a fine layer of oil.

Why I am grumping today:

I want to start cleaning my dira for pasch but I got to deal with roomates who put everything off till the last minute and do a bad job of cleaning anyways. So I am stuck trying to get them to clean a few weeks before pasech which will inevitably end up be them doing a halfa job a day before the bedika...

So, just to spite me, my wife totally forgot to make me breakfast today. And then called me that she's bringing it soon. And then forgot again. Or maybe she just wants me to appreciate the times that at least I have soggy breakfast.

I'm actually wondering, if she would have made me a gourmet breakfast, thereby denying me the opportunity to grump, is that something to grump about? Waiting to hear from the chashuve oilam. Especially the one-eyed redfaced monster

If I 'member correctly, I offered to send you food at least twice and I was turned down Oh So Graciously each time.

Anyhoo, I'm too busy stewing in my own grief to care much about your (lack of) soggy breakfast.

Monday, blech. Work, blech. Gloomy day, blech.

It's even too much effort to grump.

shakes head...

There I am this morning in the hospital after a really long day and night (that ended in a c section with everyone healthy, BH, but I digress), and my shvigger asks my wife what I'd like to have for breakfast and she'll pick it up. My wife tells her a Hobo (the egg and hash brown sandwich, not the homeless-type dude, just to clarify). A shandeh in and of itself, because by the time it would arrive it would be cold and yucky. But is that all? No! That is not all!

Even assuming that I'd have wanted a cold hobo, she goes and puts frikkin lettuce and tomato in the sandwich! Seriously, what in the blazing inferno was that???!?!!

*shakes head once again in extreme distaste and disgust *.

Mazel tov?

I've never eaten a hobo before (either type), but it sounds pretty good. Gotta cook the homeless man low and slow - they're probably pretty tough and stringy.
