

The Grouchery: Haven for the Grumpily Disgruntled

Posted by youknowwho - 08 Mar 2024 15:01

Speaking to a few friends offline gave birth to this idea, it seems to be an urgent and immediate necessity.

Welcome to...The Grouchery: Haven for the Grumpily Disgruntled

This thread is a place where one can feel free to rant, vent and gripe.

It is a safe haven for negativity, sourness and blahness.

It is a place where one can be sure to find a healthy dose of demotivating advice. It is a place where any kind of positivity is strictly forbidden.

It is a place where you can vent about what a rotten day you're having and not worry that people will then reach out with concerned pm's/texts...cuz nobody really cares. And that's perfectly fine, why should anybody care?

Please Remember:

-No profanity (Sadly)

-No personal insults (Sadly)

- Absolutely no: Nice, positive, warm, loving, optimistic, motivational, supportive or inspiring posts. (Not sadly)

Enter at your own risk!

I think this place is meant for funny grumps, but here comes a real one. On RH I was remembering that when I was newlywed, any time I showed my wife affection some droplets would come out. And I was so broken, like I'm a lost case being moitzee zera all the time. After a little while I called a rebbe and literally cried to him. Which didn't help much. Why, oh why, wasn't I told back then that drops that come out like that, not ???? ???, are according to most poskim not considered zera at all? I only learned that years later. Why did I need to have that pain? Why couldn't someone teach me?

Does that mean if a bit of zera comes out while using the bathroom (number 2, usually when I need extra pushing) it isn't considered zera and my mikva doesn't go to the garbage?

Not sure exactly what you mean. The way Hashem made us is that zera comes out with a shooting feeling. There's a different liquid entirely that is like the body's way of cleaning the area. That is not zera. The geder of the poskim is ???? ???. Don't accept psak from me. Call a rav and ask, explaining clearly what you are referring you

I've already grumped and grouched on a different thread that I never got a normal chosson shmooze.

Regardless, would it have helped me? Yes in my marriage, maybe not in the Shmiras einayim issues.

Same same, I rejected her advances because of this, and caused all kind of shalom bais resentment for years.

Alas, I am smitten with horror and indignation at this blasphemous transgression!

Nay, sayeth I, an utter sacrilegious abomination!

Thou all dost defile The Sacred Grouchery, set apart for frivolous lamentations and vexing trifles, with troubles of grave import.

And thus, thy words shall fall upon deaf ears, lost amidst the din of levity and disregard!

Buddy, who do you think you are, to “decide” what belongs on this beloved Grouchery? What gives you the right to gripe about anything?- aside, of course, that this is ye Grouchery- the Haven for the Grumpily Disgruntled, where anything goes- yes, including “serious” (yech) grumps.

Warning: Spoiler!

Me: Please don't throw out those matches.

Wife: Why not? They don't work.

Me: They do work, it's just the strip on the box that doesn't work.

Wife: So why shouldn't we just throw them out?

Me: Because I'd like to light them up and watch them burn.

Wife: That could be very dangerous!

Me: Don't worry, I'll put them in a pan first.

Wife: Still dangerous.

Me: I'll put them in the neighbor's fire pit, and then burn them.

Wife: No.

Me: But why not?

Wife: What's the point?

Me: It's cool!

Wife: That's not a good enough reason.

Me: I had such self control for so long to not just do it already!!

Wife: Well, in that case, you can get some more self control and just throw them out.

So, fellow grouchers, what say you?

The match is fine, it's just the strip on the box that's causing a rift here.
