

The Grouchery: Haven for the Grumpily Disgruntled

Posted by youknowwho - 08 Mar 2024 15:01

Speaking to a few friends offline gave birth to this idea, it seems to be an urgent and immediate necessity.

Welcome to...The Grouchery: Haven for the Grumpily Disgruntled

This thread is a place where one can feel free to rant, vent and gripe.

It is a safe haven for negativity, sourness and blahness.

It is a place where one can be sure to find a healthy dose of demotivating advice. It is a place where any kind of positivity is strictly forbidden.

It is a place where you can vent about what a rotten day you're having and not worry that people will then reach out with concerned pm's/texts...cuz nobody really cares. And that's perfectly fine, why should anybody care?

Please Remember:

-No profanity (Sadly)

-No personal insults (Sadly)

- Absolutely no: Nice, positive, warm, loving, optimistic, motivational, supportive or inspiring posts. (Not sadly)

Got a new, fancy shaver as an anniversary gift. It worked beautifully (as much as a Kosher shaver can) the first two weeks. (I'm a Friday-to-Friday shaving guy.) Ever since then, it's been pulling my beard hairs so bad that I have to go back to my old shaver.

Warning: Spoiler!

Thursday night I got to sleep past 2. Ate by the in-laws Friday night. A Grouch-worthy event by itself. By the time we got home, put the (kvetchy) kids to bed and said goodnight to my wife, it wasn't even all that late. I had a little learning to do, and I sat on the couch to catch a breath.

I blink and next thing I know, it's around 3:45 am, I'm in bed, wife's telling me "make a bottle for the screaming baby, and why are all the lights off???" I'm like, "huh? Watchu talkin 'bout?" I then have a vague memory of waking up in the couch at some point, wondering why all the lights are on, and happily shutting all (except for one bathroom light, thank goodness).

I'd love to say that shabbos was romantic in the dark, but kvetchy baby and all...

Thats one reason why not to shave, you see if i got a shaver now it would be a new one, and new ones are no good and i dont have an old one. So that does it for me.

Does your wife give you flack for the beard? Because if so, you're safe. If not, however, your post is not a Grouch, and therefore belongs on the Happery.

I once met a guy who posts on the happery, it was a dangerous experience they're way to pleasant, almost knocked the grouch out of me

I have two pairs of work boots. One squishes my (already squished) toes, causing me tremendous pain for the day, and even a couple of the following days. The other pair is much more comfy, it just decided to stop being waterproof. And my job can have me in water for several hours a day.

Also, camel crickets (otherwise known by their Latin name of “jumping buggies”) and mice are back. Hurray.

NEVER shop in Bingo while hungry, while on a diet. Or else you’ll come home with what I did:

Sugar-free Sesame, Black Cumin and Salt Brittle, (Ing: Sesame, sweetener, black cumin, salt.

What a shandeh, I’m gonna put it out there for the birds in those Parshas B’shalach thingies my kids came home with.

Halevai I could Grouch about my shaver being shvach on Friday. But alas, I had no frikkin time to flippin shave on Friday.

Went to bed past 2 Thursday night, woke up basically regular time, got home, took my son to an appointment, brought him to Yeshiva. Got home to a napping baby (thank goodness) and a relaxing wife who was still in pj’s. She ended up sleeping most of the day, which left me to get everything done.

When she woke up (maybe 25 minutes to candle lighting), she decides to make cookies!!! Because she could make them and I’d put them in the oven and take ‘em out. Yeah. Overlooking me bathing the baby, showering myself and finishing up the rest.

Posting on behalf of some friendly neighborhood birds (I overheard them grouching, keeled over in pain, at Shalesheedis time).

And I quote:

"Why, oh, why did I eat from that good-looking treat?! When am I gonna learn to stick to tradition and eat regular bread?!"

"I had the choice of a regular Challah or sourdough (at the Feldmans), but no, I had to mess up my innards by eating from that godawful black cumin at [REDACTED]!"
