TSome of history's greatest replies come from people we don't usually associate with great wit.

In the decades prior to World War II, Mohandas 'Mahatma' Gandhi led a massive campaign of civil disobedience designed to help colonial India win its independence from the British Empire. In 1931, shortly after being named Time magazine's 'Man of the Year,' Gandhi traveled to London to meet with British authorities. The entire nation was curious to learn more about this little brown man, as many called him. Constantly swarmed by press and photographers, Gandhi was peppered with questions wherever he went.

One day a reporter yelled out, What do you think of Western civilization?

It was a defining moment, and Gandhi's reply instantly transformed him from an object of curiosity into a celebrity.

In his heavy Indian accent, he answered, I think it would be a good idea.

The warden, addressing the three instigators of a failed prison riot, said, I would like to know two things. First: Why did you revolt? Second: How did you get out of your cell?

One of the three men stepped forward, "Warden, we rebelled because the food is awful."

"I see. And what did you use to break the bars?", The warden asked.

Replied the spokesman, "French Toast"

One night, Biden is tossing restlessly in his White House bed.

He awakens to see George Washington standing by him.

Biden asks him, "George, what's the best thing I can do to help the country?"

"Set an honest and honorable example, just as I did", Washington advises, and then fades away.

The next night, Biden is astir again, and sees the ghost of Thomas Jefferson moving through the darkened bedroom. Biden calls out, "Tom, please! What is the best thing I can do to help the country?"

"Respect the Constitution, as I did", Jefferson advises, and dims from sight.

The third night sleep still does not come for Biden. He awakens to see the ghost of FDR hovering over his bed. Biden whispers, "Franklin, What is the best thing I can do to help the country?"

"Help the less fortunate, just as I did", FDR replies, and fades into the mist.

Biden isn't sleeping well the fourth night when he sees another figure moving in the shadows. It is the ghost of Abraham Lincoln. Biden pleads, "Abe, what is the best thing I can do right now to help the country?"

Lincoln replies, "Go see a play."

A judge was interviewing a woman regarding her pending divorce, and asked, "What are the grounds for your divorce?"

She replied, "About four acres and a nice little home in the middle of the property with a stream running by."

"No", he said, "I mean what is the foundation of this case?"

"It is made of concrete, brick and mortar", she responded.

"I mean", he continued, "What are your relations like?"

"I have an aunt and uncle living here in town, and so do my husband's parents."

"He said, Do you have a real grudge?"

"No", she replied, "We have a two-car driveway and have never really needed one."

"Please", he tried again, "is there any infidelity in your marriage?"

"Yes, both my son and daughter have stereo sets. We don't necessarily like the music, but the answer to your questions is yes."

"Ma'am, does your husband ever beat you up?"

"Yes", she responded, "about twice a week he gets up earlier than I do."

Finally, in frustration, the judge asked, "Lady, why do you want a divorce?"

"Oh, I don't want a divorce", she replied. "I've never wanted a divorce. My husband does. He said he can't communicate with me!"

A Republican and a Democrat were walking down the street when they came to a homeless person.

The Republican gave the homeless person his business card and told him to come to his business for a job. He then took twenty dollars out of his pocket and gave it to the homeless person.

The Democrat was very impressed, and when they came to another homeless person, he decided to help. He walked over to the homeless person and gave him directions to the welfare office. He then reached into the Republican's pocket and got out twenty dollars. He kept $15 for administrative fees and gave the homeless person five.
