That's not all Yiddish or English there's some Hungarian and Polish (i think).

Yo peerim kivanok

Theres Kentuckish in there too ,or is woodford actually a Yiddish word ?

double Ichaim.

Ahhh where is the rebbe.

The rebbe's cone is dripping.

(how many GYEers recognize this avatar image with the ice cream.

probably not that many. Oy vey. Where is Bardichev????)

IF HES DRIPPING

STILL NOT TRIPPING

HES GONE ON LIVING

NO MORE SLIPPING

WOODFORDS GRIPPING

OY MINE GRIBBEN

VUS IZ KLIBBEN

FAR DE ZUBBEN

FARSHTAY MINE POBEM(?)

ICH NISHT FARSHTAYEN

So LET'S GET CRACKEN

WITH L'CHAIM!!!!

(The last line must be lamed in a higher tone than the other lines. Some shi-tes jold that one is yotzea b'deved even if the last line is red at the same pitch as the rest. However it is well known that the Rebbe holds that should be Machmer if it will not cause him to lose his sobriety.)

GGribben: is that greevin (a type of food) or maybe gribbelen (however you translate that) or maybe grooben/grubben (digging)

Klibben: kleiben? (Choose) geklibben (chose) clubbin'? (Moderator what's the correct way to translate that?)

Zubben: is that Zibben? (Seven) Tzu hobben? (To have) or something fatty?

and Pobem: That's probably "problem" with a poetic license or they simply are polish and Hungarian.

I don't speak for Hungarians or Polishmen. I can only speak for myself...
