

A new name for the world

Posted by Shteeble - 19 Jan 2011 04:54

I never really liked the name world.

I'm taking suggestions for a new name.

Please post.

soda

i think that would make a great name

but if your father gave you by your bris the name world, then its a done deal nothing you could do about it so i simply dont understand your question, its like asking what day of the week should i keep shabbos?

nuts

hello soda world!!!

Pinchu Batchy

I like I like! Very nice dahlink, but as ve vood say in Bardsapest or Buda Parik Ez j?l hangzik, de ha megy a Magyar, mi a helyzet "Vil?g b?csi"?

PS Give regards to Ruchi Neni!

hello soda world!!!

i beg to differ.

a name that is un-used is not considered a name. if someone accidently names is child after a living relative they dont use the name and they just give a new name.....obviously if this happens you must ask your rebbi. but this is the general rule.

I think that HashemsSoldier is explaining the din of "Shem shenishtakech". If someone was given a name, but he is not called by that name - EVER. Then for all halachik purposes that names acquires the status of a "Forgotten name" and it is no longer considered his name.

Any shtaros or legal documents that do not have that name will still be considered complete.

In my haste, I just picked the first word that came to my mind.

"world" seems to me to be an arrogant, cold, lifeless, weird, useless, pointless, thoughtless,

tasteless, and strange name.

Also, now I've joined in the D.C. call, and everyone (almost) seems to have straightforward names.

you sound really depressed about it, consider getting some professional help, therapy might help

Boldog magyarok

?sd ki magad.

Nem knock magunkat, mi csak tartsa a tehersz?ll?t?s, ?s ?sd a YH-b?!!

World, you are soooo good! Always giving us a reason to be Hungarian, Humbled, and Happy!
KOT!

Nem tu dum Magyarol.

I need a return ticket. I need to get out of here quick!

Are there any seats available on Malev airlines? Which other flights leave from Feryhegy Airport?
