

Yossi's Journey

Posted by Yossi.L. - 07 Sep 2011 03:22

Today is day 15 of my current cycle of cleanliness, may this cycle be the everlasting cycle! I always find that the beginning of my cycles are much easier to maintain cleanliness as opposed to a couple of months in. I feel like once I've driven my number of clean days up, i tend to lose the same intense focus as in the beginning. I pray that this cycle will be different. Any tips would be appreciated. Fighting on!

If you change your nick she will probably find you anyway....i guess you'll just have to trust her.

Also if you want to post something she shouldn't see you can use the "Married Guys" section.

How many smileys today?

Had the same issue. I just decided, if she looks, she looks. She admitted to looking a couple of times and said she was impressed with what I wrote.

She really has no patience to read this stuff so I don't think she is on here much.

I agree with Gevura. You can post sensitive stuff under the baal habatim section. Hiding from her by changing your name might make her more upset.

Gut Voch Yossi!

Click on Profile, then click Group Membership on the left side. There will be a list of groups with "Request Membership" buttons next to them.

KOMT!!!!

I am one day away from my matching my previous clean streak of 37 days. I tried to push this to the back of my mind however, for some reason I can't stop thinking about it. Every time I have had a clean streak and then I near my previous mark it usually is a tough time for me. My yetzer hara starts doing some logistical planning and attacks. So far he hasnt attacked, but I am on guard.

Maybe you need to stop counting. Focusing on it too much seems to be counter productive for you.

Maybe you're right I'm not sure there is both negative and positive things about counting
