It depend if you count the time according to Jewish time or according to the secular date.

If you do both, you can reach 90 days in only 45!

Sholoim Aleichem!

Vos macht ah yeed fin.....

Have a gr8 trip up to the mountains, & like Reb B. says Di Contry ken zein Groise Problaimen.

Geb Acht!

Ok. Reb Me, before you leave print out the hand books from Reb Guard, it's a must read.

When your done reading it, read it one more time the give it to your chaver he can use it as well & start internalizing what you read.

It will give you a better chance at actually getting to 90 days clean & after that 90 yrs. and after that they say that you are more or less in safe territory (although it says "Al Tamin B'Atsmicho Ad Yoim Moischo").

Chazak V'Emotz!

Reb me,

One more thing.

you started stopping only in the teens times. I stopped many more times then that before I got to GYE.

I B'H reached 90 days this week. YaaaaaaY!

Over here we don't stop even when or if we fall.

We just get up and shake off the dust & fight to the end.

And the results of success is very high if you stay with us & keep on posting & follow the advice given to you by the many professionals over here who have first hand experience in this struggle.

Thank you efshar & Uri appreciate the support, for me my nisayon is in the city not in the mountains.

Uri, your situation reminds me of a friend I knew when I was younger. He broke up (mutually, they were both frum & good intentioned), and he "shteiged" immensely, he was miserable for a while but he persevered. Keep it up!

I was trying for years to stop before I found this site. I am not in the clear yet but for the first time ever I have hope. Your five minutes are so, so precious. You should dance with joy that you held back for five minutes. You brought so much light into the world in those five minutes. Please try to really feel good about them. Also stop looking at yourself as bad. Coming here in the portable of a very special life. We are all thinking of you.

Been neglecting my own thread for a while, however I've come back here for saftey.

After careful analysis of Uri's and Reb B's threads I have come to the determination that this place is full of

RAVING LUNATICS!

What? oh me2, no! me3
