Even though we are one

I feel like I want to run

Cause over is are fun

As it seems like we are done

It's lonely out here

I got much to feat

So please be near!

If you believe you're a poet

And you think you really know it

Then instead of just kvelling

How bout check your spelling

So please be near!

But are we Romeo and Juliet?

Is my pen the marionette?

Of my heart....

You are a part

Of me

Don't you see?

I cannot let you go,

So when I fly,

When I soar...

It will always remain so,

Do not sigh

Room for one more...

As you can see, the birdie landed on my shoulder. I am no longer flying.

I was afraid that as soon as I stop flying I'll drown. Today I felt that I'm not flying, didn't have patience to learn and was restless and fidgety.

I picked myself up and took a bus into Boro Park ihr HaKodesh, sat down in Beis Medrash and learned for an hour. I even managed to accomplish some other stuff while I was at it. Now I feel refreshed and rejuvenated. Simple. All I needed to do was get out of my head. If I hadn't, I probably would have been m2st&rb@ting now. I thank Hashem fo giving me the courage to change the things I can.

Gevaldig! Keep living! We need you!

BTW, speaking of your birdie on your shoulder,
ever heard the song (from kindragrten)?

Tzipor, tzipor thru my chalone

Tzipor, tzipor thru my chalone

Oh TZ I am tired...

Take a yaldah and tap her on her shoulder

Take a yaldah and tap her on her shoulder

Oh TZ I am tired...

(I think I'll go take a nap...)

In Satmar kindergarten they didn't teach Ivrit songs, it sounds kind of nonsensical, I like this song better:

???? ????? ?? ??????, ????????

Like it because it promises alcohol

Listen here, Better having a chirp on my shoulder than constantly walking around with a chip on my shoulder.

Loi toiv heyoiis hoo'oodum l'vadoi. Now if I get a chip on my shoulder, the birdie eats it up before I notice it's there...
