So I am happy and at peace. I regret having slipped but I do not feel discouraged by having to restart my 90 journey and even feel encouraged that ~~I took this step on my own.~~

Eli

That needs to be be "feel encouraged that Hashem allowed me to take this step"

Having honesty is great...keeping it today is another. Pray for me and the rest of us.

Was setting up the liechter this morning before I went to work but after my wife and kids were out of the house and the following thought came to me:

Six months ago, if I would have been in the same situation, I would have be porning, not setting up the leichter.

That you Hashem for letting me set up the leichter instead.

Thank you for the opportunity

Love

Eli

Intentionally viewed videos on youtube that I should not have. Didn't masturbate.

But that counts as a fall.

A bunch of contributing factors 1. working very hard last few days 2. let myself watch TV 3. which led to the minimal sleep and ... 4. didn't exercising 4. almost didn't learn.

The tv watching was the beginning of the snowballing down the hill.

I plan on talking this through with a friend who knows about my problem and struggles as well. We spoke about setting up a daily call. Hasn't started yet. But will tonight.

I hope to post less and use the nightly call to honestly discuss how my day went.
