It was never explained to me, and I was always too proud to ask.

I dont know what tonight is but I'll tell you the background to the leichter business.

Around a year ago I was preparing my wife's leichter on Friday morning after she left to go to work but before I left, when something hit me.

Had this been a few months earlier, I would have been in the bathroom watching porn instead of preparing the leichter.

My sobriety gave me the opportunity to live my life again and the opportunity to contribute to our shalom bayis in a healthy way.

So leichter became a thing.

That why my profile picture has two candles

Nice.

Thanks.

In the spirit of the current news, last night (which I didn't know about - for the first time ever did that happen), it was somethin' that rhymed with HaTikvah.

It's been nearly 21 months since I've been here and one of the things that I've learned to do is address my near slips honestly.

"X" is a potential danger zone, avert eyes, go veiter.

No justifications, no internal discussions.

This is easier with near slips than with slips. (A near slip is a situation where you suddenly realize that you really don't need to be in this situation and staying there will probably lead to trouble).

Don't worry I committed to are larger sum if I hit 90

In other news I was slipping a lot yesterday. I told a friend in person that I was slipping and we will be discussing later today.

Today I felt like lusting more, instead I came here.

Good move.

Were you lustin' to come here?

Some do.

some remain here to ensure that they are not lustin' anywhere else.

I was not lusting to come here but thinking about the living hell i used to live in made it easier to come here when the pull to lust began

Had a fall on Sunday. Spoke to my safe friend. We have a plan. Veiter.
