

I'm Collecting Mazal Tov's

Hi, y'all! Today I'm officially 30 days clean. Yay!! (It's probably closer to about sixty or so but its thirty since I starting counting on the 90-day thingie so I'm sticking with that.) One day at a time...one day at a time...

One slip but nothing major enough to constitute a fall. Chasdei Hashem!!

Thanks to all the gyes writing on GYE. The chizuk is fantastic and the sense of togetherness makes a big difference in this "battle".

Thank you in advance for indulging me with your good wishes of mazal tov.

KOKO everybody!

Mendel!

That story of last night hits home!

And you see, that little expectation causes such problems.

that's why, in my mind, I wanna abstain completely.

Don't expect nothing!

Don't be anywhere near the bedroom door, unless of course, by some mistake, she calls you in.

Otherwise, stay downstairs!

Anyways, you da man!

Keep up the attitude and hatzlachah!

Thanks for the encouragement. I'm gonna respond to that over at Ramblings of a Recovering Lunatic - Baleh Batim's Edition.

Thanks Mendel,

I did know what you meant. I was just stam making a joke. I'm in a joking kind of mood today. Hope you did not take offense. If you did, I apologize.

Hey! We'll have none of that here. Its all good. Just wanted make it clear to those who have the IQ of doorknob. KOJ!

At first I assumed this meant "Keep On Guarding Your Eyes". Then I thought, perhaps it is really Keep On GYEing (which is really Keep On Guard-Your-Eyesing). But in the end I realized the deep yesod that R' Inna is teaching us

Until you learn the rushei teivos you just smile and nod, smile and nod, and remember that most of them mean something good and encouraging.

Oh, and mazal tov to Z-man!
