

another day

Posted by ewards - 25 Jun 2014 20:15

On they way to 90 days again I told a friend at church this morning about my struggle (i have a few guys i talk to) and that was yesterday and that seemed to give me strength for today . This whole journey is very interesting . I am not big about getting down on my self. Just want to do better . LOL have only achieved 15 days clean I keep trying

dear ewards,

i think it is important for us to mention that although all of us are trying to deal with addictions to lust, there is postive side of this urge, after all that is how g-d made us! therefore we are very pro-marriage. in our religion though extra marital relation, are forbidden, however in your case there would be nothing wrong if you could get a permanent girlfriend, to build a solid relationship. that way you are channeling your urges in the right direction.

your friend lavi.

UMMM I had a trigger big time last nite 2 guys and 2 women bare clothed and making out .

I keep finding myself REreading posts like these, when they show up. It's similar to the "second

I guess even when I'm on GYE I have my challenges to work on.

Lavi

Ummm well I always said i didn't have time for a relationship , I guess that was cause i spent two much time lusting and etc I will have too look at that closer I do have a friend at the school i , I will keep it in mind . I find a lot of things are clearer when i am not acting out ,I see things differently ,Interesting

Just concentrate on now. Concentrate, don't worry. No need to worry. Just take a deep breath and get on with your day, with whatever you have to do!

KOL! KEEP ON LIVING!

That's it....get up and try again!

but what can you learn from the last fall?

what can i learn well i still enjoy it , not sure i want to stop completely, would settle for more control over my lust and acting out . Is that a bad way to feel

The truth about feelings is that they aren't bad or good, feelings are...feelings, they are just a fact of life.

Now, how to deal with feelings is a separate question. Of course we all would want to just be able to control our lust, the Big Bool mentions that "The idea that somehow, someday he will control and enjoy his drinking [lusting] is the great obsession of every abnormal drinker [luster]" (Beginning of Chapter 3)

That is why step one is so important, it is for us to knock into us that history has proven that that is probably not going to happen!!

So now we have the next decision to make, is it going to be all or nothing? It's up to you!

KOT!!
