Posted by Bigmoish - 29 Jul 2014 23:01

I just posted my story in the "introduce yourself" forum. It feels like a weight off my shoulders already, but I hope I can really do this.

I already woke up this morning with the YH in my head, but I managed to brush it off and go

When you feel your sobriety can handle it (step 12?), lots of folks would benefit from your comments.

Today, in spite of being extremely ungrateful, irritable, lustful, resentful, et al, I am grateful to Hashem for the following:

My sponsor

My children

My parents' emotional support

Friends

Thank you Moish

So where's that post about you being grateful for inna finally calling you after ignoring you for months?

I can't believe you really thought I was still in Israel.

Besides for being my 1,000th post, today is the 2 year anniversary of my first post.

Although I still have yet to reach 90 days clean, for the last several months I have actually been able to live life on a pretty consistent basis, without the constant shadow of lust and escape hovering over me as I have felt for the several years prior. I feel this is a result of getting close to real people here who struggle just like me. In addition, I went to my first SA meeting this week, and I hope to progress further into recovery with my new friends.

I would like to thank everyone on this forum who has helped me get to where I am today, and I apologize if I am forgetting anyone.

I owe my life to you.

May HKB"H accept your mesiras nefesh and see it fit to free you of this debilitating struggle. May you come out from this a better, stronger and happier person and may you live in blissful happiness and affection with your wife and family until 120 accompanied by health, wealth and happiness.

I always think about you and have gotten much chizzuk from our talks as well as your posts.

Moshe: I feel lucky to be able to call you a friend. You were there for me in my darkest hour, and there was a reason I felt I could open up to you and rely on you. You're truly a special person with a good heart. I feel honored that I was in the list of people. I also was pleasantly surprised how thorough the list was, (I will tell newyorker94 that you say thank you). I applaud you taking that Big Step, (badumbum), of attended a live SA meeting. It's a good place and everyone has to go through their own processes before going to a meeting. Apparently God decided it was time. Hatzlacha Raba.
