Glad to hear you are taking that step! The definition for clean days is under the "how it works" tab above the 90 day chart. Here is the link guardyoureyes.com/90-days-chart/rules

Shalom aleichem, Gimpel!

A not too great workaround is to click 'desktop view' in your mobile browser.

Hatzlacha on your journey!

Unless I am mistaken, I don't see people using the chat rooms. I see people communicating in the forums and in private messages.

Have you reached out to anyone? I think most people chat one on one instead of in chat rooms. Sometimes you want to be a little more open with someone, but you don't necessarily want it broadcasted to the general public. Hatzlocha

Thanks for clarifying that point for Gimpel. When I first came here, I kept checking the chat rooms and nothing was going on. I thought something was wrong on my end. Eventually I realized people were chatting one on one, as you say, by clicking on the "who's Online" button. The one on one chatting is different from private messaging that I mentioned in error.
