

(BIG) LONG SHOT!?

Posted by stillgoing - 30 Apr 2015 18:20

Sometimes I wonder if being a big shot (since I am the most humble guy I have ever met, I must be a big shot) is such a bad thing. Right now the main thing that is keeping me clean for 6 days so far is the 90 day chart. Why does the 90 day chart work for me, because I know that my name (ok, not my birth name, my rebirth name) is up on the chart for everyone to see, and since I think that I am G-d's gift to the world, I know that if I fall everyone is going to see that I'm a loser (which I am, since I've been losing for more years than I can count on my hands (and feet). Ok I know someone is going to tell me that I'm not a loser, and I would say that to you also, and I would believe it too - when I'm talking about you. Somehow when it's about myself, it's much harder to believe.

So that's why I'm specifically calling attention to my chart so that if I feel myself slipping I will think how embarrassed I will be since everybody will know about it (which hasn't been since high school.)

I guess I wasn't clear.

I don't know what carried you over, But nothing carried me.

Ahem.

Huh?

Cordnoy, I'm lost. Can you explain the ahem?

You wrote that you reached out as well; he didn't.

Becomin' real with another is key.

These things take time.

One step at a time.

Do the phone thingy first.

Email someone.

How come the phone thingy's all seem to be about the big book and not the white book. I hate alcohol (the one thing I have going for me).

And do we need to talk on the calls? (Besides for the heilige CordureyCordnoy's call)

Is this true?

I feel like the beginning goes all the way until the end.

Or when I grow my own lemons.

I think this is my favorite.

After this of course

need to see them one at a time to comment productively.

I really feel for you guys - looks like the last month or so has been tough for a lot of us (including it hasn't been easy. And I completely agree, we need a crying emoticon on the message palette and there just simply isn't one! Where is the crying emoticon just when you need it???

Crying to who?

What will it help?

me). I'm still picking up the pieces, if you know what I mean

You're right, crying to no one out of depression won't help, especially if you're an addict.

Crying to who?

Oh come on. When my father was nifter a few years ago I cried. One may ask, Crying to who? What will it help?. It won't bring him back but I still want to cry. Maybe you'll tell me that this site is strictly for growth and there is no room for silly emotions, but then why do we encourage and sympathize with each other if not to deal with the emotional side. I fell and i'm sad about it. Angry at myself may be a better word. It's an emotion that needs to be dealt with even if it's not necessarily positive. The emoticon's are there to help us convey our feelings.

That said, maybe you don't disagree but was just pointing out that crying alone won't solve any problems.

There are distinction between the cases but I won't argue the point.

My main point is to focus on the future and not dwell on the past.

Sorry for sounding so harsh. I'm upset at my self so I'm lashing out at those trying to help me.

Lash out at me.....that's fine. Firstly I deserve it, and secondly, my ego is so large, it bounces right off.

I highly doubt that you "deserve it" more then me, (or probable most people here) about the ego...

Warning: Spoiler!

Agav, I really like TalmidChaim's take on ego's

Just a thought about recent debates that have been raging on another thread lately.

Dale Carnegie

As wise old Ben Franklin used to say:

If you argue and rankle and contradict, you may achieve a victory sometimes; but it will be an empty victory because you will never get your opponent's good will.

So figure it out for yourself. Which would you rather have, an academic, theatrical victory or a person's good will? You can seldom have both.

The Boston Transcript once printed this bit of significant doggerel:

Here lies the body of William Jay, . Who died maintaining his right of way-He was right, dead right, as he sped along, But he's just as dead as if he were wrong.

You may be right, dead right, as you speed along in your argument;
but as far as changing another's mind is concerned, you will probably be just as futile as if you were wrong.
