Just a unanimous one im just very confused when i finished with dov i thought that was the correct course but after i asked advice on how to do it both Markz and shlomo didn't think that would be the right path to take so now im not sure

Well, if there is indeed a ??????, you will never get it unanimous again.

Said what. I only asked a question, and your reply made sense. Btw I think the Mom will usually be more understanding, but maybe that's what I think about my Mom

Dov is a much wiser man than I am.

Definitely depends on the case. I would MUCH rather talk to my dad first about lots of things. I always assume he tells my mom, but it still works better for me.

Hey chevra so long story short i told my father in very vague terms and he didn't prod which i'm really thankful for and neither did he freak out at all

B"H hes found me a psychologist and i went once already so a lot to say but cant right now because i have tons of work just really wanted to express my gratitude to everyone who pushed me to do this and of course HIM for helping me out bigger update to come later not really sure when gut voch to all

So its really been amazing and game changing first off i have him many things which i never ever thought i would tell anyone including how this started and what types of stuff i'm looking at/watching and thanks to him my house is as far as i know filtered and in fact when i came home from yeshiva last week and for the first time i couldn't watch anything i had this most amazing sense of freedom and at the same time utter imprisonment i also discovered how far i will go to get porn when i am turned on (watching stuff in plain sight with my brother one room over) telling my baggage really has lifted a weight off my heart and my mother even mentioned that since I have gone to see him I have been a lot happier

i just want to share one thing he told me from my last session "people think addicts take their substances (whatever it is) to get high but they aren't we are doing it to get level" (sorry took so long hard to find a good time to post)

It means that I saw you lurking on another thread, so I bumped your thread up to the recent topics list in the hopes that you'll give us another update. :-)
