Wow a great start and a great end to a great day.The y'h tried bur B'h failed today.I am now really starting to see how by letting go and giving myself over to hashem,I can start to see real growth.I am at a stage in my life where I am facing up to very painful part of my life,one that is at the root of my addiction.It is hard to face but I have the emunah that I will cut thru all the bull..... and start to live my life.

B'H I was tessted yesterday,and pretty much passed.Looking back it was exactly what I needed to gain true insight.I am dealing with some really apinful aspects of my lofe,and facing them head on.I will ,with Hashem's help tear away each layer of all the klipot I have in my life. I am finding it very freeing to let Hashem lead me,and to start living my life on my terms without the shame.It is time now to lead a life of true emunah.

What a powerful Neshama, but trapped in so many layers! If you succeed in removing them, you will reveal a diamond of unparalleled brilliance!

B"H moving in the right direction. I am really seeing a lot of positive results. I have learned much and have so much to thank Hashem for. During Hallel on shevie shelpesach I actually cried from being so happy and close to Hashem.

Today is Rosh Chodesh and again we say Hallel... How the words are so appropriate, like you say, that you actually cried! What a great soul you must have...

Hallel...

"From the trash-heaps he uplifts the pauper, to sit him amongst the the great men"...

"Hashem made me suffer, but to death he did not give me over"....

"I praise you that you afflicted me, and it was for me a salvation"...

"From Hashem was this, it is wondrous in our eyes!!"
