

Road to 90 days (how I succeeded, and you can too)
Posted by Yosef Tikun HaYesod - 17 Nov 2016 07:53

I don't understand how being here is going to help.

Perhaps posting my progress and struggles will help other people.

Perhaps I'll receive encouragement and good advice and support.

I sincerely DOUBT that I can just succeed for 90 days (13 weeks), just because I decide I want to, SINCE I've failed so many times in the past. But maybe this time is different, because I will post here, and have 2 experienced guys I've been emailing regularly.

B'ezras HaShem, I will finally succeed and break free from this bad habit.

Test to see if it links the exact post I want it to...I doubt it will.

You Cracked it

Now the trick to make it pretty

Double click on the word you want to be linkable

Like Here

And then with the word highlighted you can then click the add link button like you did in the previous two posts

Il wish these instructions would be written in English so I can understand them.

And why would someone insert quotation marks into the word url, and then be instructed to remove them?

Otherwise you wouldn't see what I'm trying to show you.

For example

If I don't

~~Put any quotes, you see this~~

[b"]in this example[/b]

[i"]I do[/i]

[strike"]Put in quotes, you see this[/strike]

This forum's website will recognize a specific combination of characters and letters as a command.

Warning: Spoiler!

[spoiler"] by putting a quotation mark inside the bracket, the website doesn't recognize the command[/spoiler]

This exercise has become more complicated than breaking free of lust.

My bad. I should probably get some sleep..
Up to 90 days clean.

Had a protein shake spill on my computer.

Sticky thick liquid spilling where it shouldn't...interesting!

Sometimes, HaShem isn't so subtle, when He wants to give me a message to be more careful. At least, I hear the message loud and clear, and He doesn't need to send a bigger, and more painful message. Only the control key and the 5 and 6 buttons are not working (and I can use the number pad to type those two numbers).

I just thought of this NOW, as I'm typing:

essentially, the only thing that is really messed up is the CONTROL button!

I've got to fix that part of myself, and start exercising more control.

Wow, HaShem really loves me! Not only do I daven and talk to Him.

He communicates back to me!

(yes, before anybody asks about it or comments, I know this can be taken too far. There are people locked up in insane asylums/get better mental hospitals (to be politically correct), who think that G-d is talking to them and told them whatever craziness, to murder someone or that they are Moshiach, etc.)

But the Baal Shem Tov (I believe) said that everything is b'hashgacha pratis. There are no coincidences.

And I believe that.

Maybe the point is that you shouldn't try to control...
