Just Starting

Posted by chizukconstant - 20 Dec 2016 17:43

Starting 90 Days today.

Really don't want to.. I'd much rather just stop.. but that doesn't seem to be happening.

Been trying to long.. its time to try something new. So here we go.

Sometimes I just can't believe it has come to this..

====

Re: Just Starting

Posted by Singularity - 02 Mar 2017 15:33

Markz wrote on 02 Mar 2017 15:08:

chizukconstant wrote on 02 Mar 2017 14:55:

Thanks for the support.

I don't know why I censored out that word. Probably because typing it makes my embarrassment more real to me. Its hard for me to admit that this is a problem for me even though I know it is and it has been for a long time. I wish I could be like other people that don't seem to struggle with porn. And even those that do seem to have it under control. Yet, me I'm weak.

Yes it is true that every time I fall I end up picking myself up at some point and try again. But is that because I want to change or just because I feel so low and despicable in my eyes that I am left with no choice?

I know I want to change. Or at least I know I need to. At some point I will get caught and my life will be destroyed. But can I really imagine never looking at a naked girl again? Do I really want to give up that thrill of looking at porn?

GYE - Guard Your Eyes Generated: 17 April, 2024, 11:04

Yes, I understand that the pain afterwards is way worse than the joy. But in some way it still seems worth it. Perhaps that is my issue. Maybe I don't want to really succeed enough to actually win this battle.
Confused
Confused but honest. There are many on this site that haven't reached the confused clarity you have
It can be a stepping stone forward if you're interested in making that move - whenever you're ready
Yes. Very nice.
=======================================
Re: Just Starting Posted by chizukconstant - 03 Mar 2017 15:34
I dont know how you do it? I just want to give in. I know in the long run I need to stop but right now I don't want to. It sounds childish but how do you not do something that you are able to do and want to do? What is stopping me from doing it?
Just myself and myself wants to do it
====
Re: Just Starting Posted by cordnov - 03 Mar 2017 17:29

A lot of stuff you said mirror big breakthroughs I've made. So now it's your turn

Thanks for the support.

I don't know why I censored out that word. Probably because typing it makes my embarrassment more real to me. Its hard for me to admit that this is a problem for me even though I know it is and it has been for a long time. I wish I could be like other people that don't seem to struggle with porn. And even those that do seem to have it under control. Yet, me I'm weak.

Yes it is true that every time I fall I end up picking myself up at some point and try again. But is that because I want to change or just because I feel so low and despicable in my eyes that I am left with no choice?

I know I want to change. Or at least I know I need to. At some point I will get caught and my life will be destroyed. But can I really imagine never looking at a naked girl again? Do I really want to give up that thrill of looking at porn?

Yes, I understand that the pain afterwards is way worse than the joy. But in some way it still seems worth it. Perhaps that is my issue. Maybe I don't want to really succeed enough to actually win this battle.

Confused
Why do you need to imagine that you will never look at a naked girl again? Did someone tell you that this is a prerequisite for recovery?
=======================================
Re: Just Starting Posted by Markz - 03 Mar 2017 17:56
cordnoy wrote on 03 Mar 2017 17:29:

chizukconstant wrote on 02 Mar 2017 14:55:

Thanks for the support.

I don't know why I censored out that word. Probably because typing it makes my embarrassment more real to me. Its hard for me to admit that this is a problem for me even though I know it is and it has been for a long time. I wish I could be like other people that don't seem to struggle with porn. And even those that do seem to have it under control. Yet, me I'm weak.

Yes it is true that every time I fall I end up picking myself up at some point and try again. But is that because I want to change or just because I feel so low and despicable in my eyes that I am left with no choice?

I know I want to change. Or at least I know I need to. At some point I will get caught and my life will be destroyed. But can I really imagine never looking at a naked girl again? Do I really want to give up that thrill of looking at porn?

Yes, I understand that the pain afterwards is way worse than the joy. But in some way it still seems worth it. Perhaps that is my issue. Maybe I don't want to really succeed enough to actually win this battle.

Confused...

Why do you need to imagine that you will never look at a naked girl again? Did someone tell you that this is a prerequisite for recovery?

I love how you always are able to peer over your reading sun glasses and see thru the post and hear what the guy is really asking and respond a "cord"ingly

====

Re: Just Starting

Posted by cordnoy - 03 Mar 2017 18:38

Markz wrote on 03 Mar 2017 17:56:

cordnoy wrote on 03 Mar 2017 17:29:

Thanks for the support.

I don't know why I censored out that word. Probably because typing it makes my embarrassment more real to me. Its hard for me to admit that this is a problem for me even though I know it is and it has been for a long time. I wish I could be like other people that don't seem to struggle with porn. And even those that do seem to have it under control. Yet, me I'm weak.

Yes it is true that every time I fall I end up picking myself up at some point and try again. But is that because I want to change or just because I feel so low and despicable in my eyes that I am left with no choice?

I know I want to change. Or at least I know I need to. At some point I will get caught and my life will be destroyed. But can I really imagine never looking at a naked girl again? Do I really want to give up that thrill of looking at porn?

Yes, I understand that the pain afterwards is way worse than the joy. But in some way it still seems worth it. Perhaps that is my issue. Maybe I don't want to really succeed enough to actually win this battle.

Confused..

Why do you need to imagine that you will never look at a naked girl again? Did someone tell you that this is a prerequisite for recovery?

I love how you always are able to peer over your reading sun glasses and see thru the post and hear what the guy is really asking and respond a "cord"ingly

I wear my sunglasses at night.

====

Re: Just Starting

Posted by tiger - 03 Mar 2017 19:34

Sounds like chizukconstant is having a hard time remembering and realizing what smutz does

Re: Just Starting

Posted by Workingguy - 03 Mar 2017 21:59

6/18

Thanks for the support.

I don't know why I censored out that word. Probably because typing it makes my embarrassment more real to me. Its hard for me to admit that this is a problem for me even though I know it is and it has been for a long time. I wish I could be like other people that don't seem to struggle with porn. And even those that do seem to have it under control. Yet, me I'm weak.

Yes it is true that every time I fall I end up picking myself up at some point and try again. But is that because I want to change or just because I feel so low and despicable in my eyes that I am left with no choice?

I know I want to change. Or at least I know I need to. At some point I will get caught and my life will be destroyed. But can I really imagine never looking at a naked girl again? Do I really want to give up that thrill of looking at porn?

Yes, I understand that the pain afterwards is way worse than the joy. But in some way it still seems worth it. Perhaps that is my issue. Maybe I don't want to really succeed enough to actually win this battle.

It's a tough one. Because it's enjoyable and we're wired to be attracted to this stuff, and it's hard to think yourself out of it.

When I've had success is bwhen I was able to live with both realizing heck yeah, I'd love to see it, but heck no, I really don't want to act out, so I guess I'm not going to see it bc those two don't go together.

====

Confused..

Re: Just Starting

Posted by Watson - 04 Mar 2017 21:28

Thanks for the support.

I don't know why I censored out that word. Probably because typing it makes my embarrassment more real to me. Its hard for me to admit that this is a problem for me even though I know it is and it has been for a long time. I wish I could be like other people that don't seem to struggle with porn. And even those that do seem to have it under control. Yet, me I'm weak.

Yes it is true that every time I fall I end up picking myself up at some point and try again. But is that because I want to change or just because I feel so low and despicable in my eyes that I am left with no choice?

I know I want to change. Or at least I know I need to. At some point I will get caught and my life will be destroyed. But can I really imagine never looking at a naked girl again? Do I really want to give up that thrill of looking at porn?

Yes, I understand that the pain afterwards is way worse than the joy. But in some way it still seems worth it. Perhaps that is my issue. Maybe I don't want to really succeed enough to actually win this battle.

Confused..

I've had the exact same thoughts many times. I want to be sober but I also want to enjoy porn.

I spent years trying to control and enjoy lust without losing my sobriety. I felt that the problem was masturbation to completion. That was what was clearly written about in halocho. Anything less than that was not smart because because it led to masturbation, but if I could do it and get away with it, that was great.

So I would use lust to enjoy myself but try to force myself to not masturbate to completion. Anything less than that was OK in my eyes. Not smart, but not a fall, who was I hurting? Of course I always fell in the end, and always wondered why.

I have to realise that for me it's not the porn that's the problem, or the masturbation. It's the lust. The fantasy. Objectifying women I see. Imagining them naked. Wanting them. When I start that it makes me feel so uncomfortable because the more I do it the more I need a release. So of course I'll end up back watching porn eventually. Of course I'll end up touching myself 'a little too long', then thumping the table in anger "how could it have happened again!"

I've found that stress was a trigger to act out. Then I found that the feeling of stress being resolved was a trigger. Sadness was a trigger, so was happiness. Getting money, losing money. Having a late night, having a early night, etc etc.

The problem is not in the externals. It's not in my circumstances. It's in me.

Sure, learning how to cope with stress is useful. But some stress is unavoidable and will always be a potential trigger. As will smooth sailing, anger, resentments, fear, hunger. Anything. There's no point for me running away from triggers. Every aspect of life can be a trigger.

So the real question is as you so wonderfully put it. Why should I stop watching porn if I enjoy it?

Do you though? Is it still fun?

For me, watching porn is being in a very dark place. As soon as I turn it on I feel the darkness close in. I can't see anything on the other side of the darkness. I feel panic, fear, hopelessness. I need to watch the porn to numb myself from the horrible feelings caused by watching porn. It's not fun anymore, it's horrible.

Amazingly, when I give it up, not just the porn but all the lust - the fantasies, the looking at the women around me, the thinking about what it would be like, I feel fine. It's fine. There's no desperation to find porn, I'm not even fighting myself or using self-control, I just feel fine and serene. And I don't have to count days anymore, it's become irrelevant. I'm not holding on until the next relapse. All that's important is to be lust-free today.

G-d makes that possible. When I ask Him to remove my lust He's willing and able to do so. All I need to do is be willing to let Him take it away completely, no strings attached. Asking Him to take the porn while I hold onto the lust doesn't work. Half measures avail nothing. But when I

GYE - Guard Your Eyes Generated: 17 April, 2024, 11:04

Gonorated. 17 April, 2021, 11101 allow Him to take all the lust, life becomes so much more wonderful and peaceful.
=======================================
Re: Just Starting Posted by chizukconstant - 07 Mar 2017 18:26
Wow you guys are saying good.
I fell again though. Feel like crap.
I had a good streak going a while ago. Since i fell though its been quite a rollercoaster ride.
I especially like what tiger said.
Its true. The desire won't go away. Im always going to want to look at porn and I need to accept that. All the reasons and logic in the world won't change that right now I want to look at it and I can look at it, and there is very little stopping me from looking. But, Hashem said trust me it is not good for you. Trust me, its better not to, and i'll help you not. Just try and Ill do the rest.
I need to stop trying to convince myself and reason with myself why I really don'y want to. Because, no reason will be good enough.
I do want to look. I do. But Hashem said no.
Trust in him. Give over the struggle to him. Ask him to fight my lust for me.
Im not giving up
====
Re: Just Starting Posted by annon12345 - 07 Mar 2017 21:47

GYE - Guard Your Eyes Generated: 17 April, 2024, 11:04
:-) today is another day, dust yourself off and start the next streak :-D
=======================================
Re: Just Starting Posted by cordnoy - 07 Mar 2017 23:43
chizukconstant wrote on 07 Mar 2017 18:26:
Wow you guys are saying good.
I fell again though. Feel like crap.
I had a good streak going a while ago. Since i fell though its been quite a rollercoaster ride.
I especially like what tiger said.
Its true. The desire won't go away. Im always going to want to look at porn and I need to accept that. All the reasons and logic in the world won't change that right now I want to look at it and I can look at it, and there is very little stopping me from looking. But, Hashem said trust me it is not good for you. Trust me, its better not to, and i'll help you not. Just try and III do the rest.
I need to stop trying to convince myself and reason with myself why I really don'y want to. Because, no reason will be good enough.
I do want to look. I do. But Hashem said no.
Trust in him. Give over the struggle to him. Ask him to fight my lust for me.
Im not giving up

Sorry about your fall.

I especially like what tiger said.

I had a good streak going a while ago. Since i fell though its been quite a rollercoaster ride.

Wow you guys are saying good.

I fell again though. Feel like crap.

Its true. The desire won't go away. Im always going to want to look at porn and I need to accept that. All the reasons and logic in the world won't change that right now I want to look at it and I can look at it, and there is very little stopping me from looking. But, Hashem said trust me it is not good for you. Trust me, its better not to, and i'll help you not. Just try and III do the rest.

I need to stop trying to convince myself and reason with myself why I really don'y want to. Because, no reason will be good enough.

I do want to look. I do. But Hashem said no.

Trust in him. Give over the struggle to him. Ask him to fight my lust for me.

Im not giving up

Sorry about your fall.

I don't really understand your post.

No reason is good enough. But, Hashem said no is good enough? Who we kiddin'? You knew that already; what's changin' now?

Ask Him to fight for you; what does that really mean? Do you have a plan in place?

No need to answer, but perhaps the thoughts will help you/me/us.

Nice to hear that you are not givin' up.

Wishin' you hatzlachah

I don't know. I really don't have the answers for the questions you ask.

Its not so much that no reason is good enough. There are so many reasons and they are all good enough.

Yet at the time I am struggling none seems to be enough.

Its almost as if these broader, long term, reasons don't bring on a feeling of a need to not look at porn right now.

Yes, I might get caught at some point. Yes, it is ruining my marriage.. slowly.

Yes, I will end up going to hell. Yes, the urge will just keep getting worse.

But right now I want to look and those reasons won't stop me.

But maybe if I admit to myself that Yes, I want to look. And yes I no logical reason is going to stop me. But even so I chose to trust in Hashem and not look.

Maybe that will work.

Its a new approach, and I'm hoping I will succeed because the others haven't worked to well

====

Re: Just Starting

Posted by annon12345 - 08 Mar 2017 19:24

I don't know. I really don't have the answers for the questions you ask.

Its not so much that no reason is good enough. There are so many reasons and they are all good enough.

Yet at the time I am struggling none seems to be enough.

The desire is very deep and defies all logic... that is for everyone.,.. it is so crucial to make gedarim before this step... if you are fighting the urges in front of a filter free computer in solitude then the battle may already be over!

Its almost as if these broader, long term, reasons don't bring on a feeling of a need to not look at porn right now.

GYE - Guard Your Eyes

Generated: 17 April, 2024, 11:04

Yes, I might get caught at some point. you have mentioned this more than once... not a psychologist but it almost sounds like you want to get caught... do you think that by getting caught it will push you so low it will force you to change? Yes, it is ruining my marriage.. slowly.

Yes, I will end up going to hell

don't be so sure.

Yes, the urge will just keep getting worse. not true.... the gemara says (and it is true) the more you starve the tayva the more it is satiated.

YOU are an amazing special person who sometimes does not such great things... but that is not YOU

YOU can change and stop ... look at all the different success stories on here... are they really so different than you?

But right now I want to look and those reasons won't stop me.

But maybe if I admit to myself that Yes, I want to look. And yes I no logical reason is going to stop me. 100% true... no logic works in the throws of tayva

But even so I chose to trust in Hashem and not look.

Maybe that will work.

Its a new approach, and I'm hoping I will succeed because the others haven't worked to well

HATZLACHA RABBAH

====

Re: Just Starting

Posted by chizukconstant - 10 Mar 2017 15:29

annon12345 wrote on 08 Mar 2017 19:24:

I don't know. I really don't have the answers for the questions you ask.

Its not so much that no reason is good enough. There are so many reasons and they are all good enough.

Yet at the time I am struggling none seems to be enough.

The desire is very deep and defies all logic... that is for everyone.,.. it is so crucial to make gedarim before this step... if you are fighting the urges in front of a filter free computer in solitude then the battle may already be over!

Its almost as if these broader, long term, reasons don't bring on a feeling of a need to not look at porn right now.

Yes, I might get caught at some point. you have mentioned this more than once... not a psychologist but it almost sounds like you want to get caught... do you think that by getting caught it will push you so low it will force you to change? Yes, it is ruining my marriage.. slowly.

Yes, I will end up going to hell

don't be so sure.

Yes, the urge will just keep getting worse. not true.... the gemara says (and it is true) the more you starve the tayva the more it is satiated.

YOU are an amazing special person who sometimes does not such great things... but that is not YOU

YOU can change and stop ... look at all the different success stories on here... are they really so different than you?

But right now I want to look and those reasons won't stop me.

But maybe if I admit to myself that Yes, I want to look. And yes I no logical reason is going to stop me. 100% true... no logic works in the throws of tayva

But even so I chose to trust in Hashem and not look.

Maybe that will work.

Its a new approach, and I'm hoping I will succeed because the others haven't worked to well

HATZLACHA RABBAH

Definitely don't want to get caught. You here me mention it so much because truthfully its my biggest reason I want to stop. I wish I had better reasons in my lineup. I wish I was a better person who wanted to stop simply because I know looking at porn is wrong. But truthfully the fright of getting caught and the embarrassment and consequences scare me to death... when I'm not in the moment, with a craving.

I made it to three days. I find that the first 3 are the hardest by far. It is so easy for one slip to just lead into the next. After that I sort of get used to it. The problem is that then my guard goes down and the YH catches me at the wrong moment and gets me to fall. Its hard to stay the same focused for a few days/weeks when you arent feeling that guilt anymore.

====

Re: Just Starting

Posted by RaabosMachshovos - 10 Mar 2017 16:52

Any reason is a good reason ;-) kul hascholos kushos!! and never give up.... dust yourself off and try again!!!!

What gedarim do you have on your internet access? are there filters? CE?

GYE - Guard Your Eyes

Generated: 17 April, 2024, 11:04

for me without CE it is impossible I have it on my phone and all my home computers ... unfortunately at work i dont have it so that is where i struggle the most...

I do all i can to avoid yichud with my computer

====