

My Story, the second first day

Hi, friends.

The first time I started my 90 days journey I thought i will succeed.

My problem to stay clean is the triggers that i can see everyday.

everyday i'm going by rail to my work, 7 years already. there are a lot of triggers i can do efforts to get my head down, but its not simple at all, to do that for two hours everyday for years.

the second trigger is in my work, i sit near two weman that come to work with very provocative clothes.

I don't know how to struggle with this daily triggers.

moreover , I connet to Internet "Rimon", and this is the worst filter i have ever seen before. but i disappointed.

their filter crashed when i start to challenge it. it miss a lot of inappropriate web pages, i spoke with them about that, but they didn't fixed their breaches, just a little.

i submit a request to rav Sherlo to do something with that, since it could be that a lot of males fall when thay surf through internet "Rimon".

I havn't got an answer yet.

today i started my first day clean, I wish with your help to succeed.

Thank you, friends.

Well, you can be one of the pioneers! You'll be the one that encourages everyone else to show up!

Glad to hear that we'll still be inspired by your ongoing journey!

OL, my conversational hebrew is like swahili, and I type even SLOWER in hebrew. plus spell check wont help much.

Please don't make me follow you there. Keep posting here, too.

42 days. so far so good.

a little "fear of heights" since to me its very long streak so far... :-[ :-[ :-[

i draw near the half of my journey hope to finish it by G-d & you my brothers.

sure i will hit the 90 in a ~50 days.

42 Days of blessed purity... Ah so good, so fresh, so alive!

I too have these little voices saying to me, "you can't just walk away from this whole part of your life, you know you're gonna fall, so you might as well do it now," but no, you know better than that voice, you will file that little voice away in a vault and then drop the vault into the Mariana Trench.
