So happy for you. Another one of the chevra is having that first taste of breaking free. The feeling that, wow, it CAN be done. Even if we c"v slip after that, it is different. We are like the slave who tasted freedom once and wants it again. Keep on being matzliach and being an inspiration for so many.

Shivisi!!!! Wow! fantastic attitude. Reminds me a little of bards, undefeatable simcha!! (only you

It seems you've got the one day at a time thing going pretty swell. The repetition again and again gets it to sink in in a real way so KUTGW!!!

Hatzlacha!!!

Thank you for teaching me why that thing is on my door post...

@shivisi You're doing great, and it's truly wonderful to watch your progress day by day.

However, I think you've had a "clean neshama" for longer than 27 days.

don't do the CAPS things

Thank you for teaching me why that thing is on my door post...

Thanks for your Chizuk, listen, only with the uplift attitude you can pass this kind of struggles, and even in a down day, when you talk and think in an upside & uplifted tone, even if your hearth is not there, just talking about it, things are changing dramatically.

CAPS thing? I have no clue what it is, and I don't understand it when others write it, might be some kind of a shtick, ?? ??????

Thanks again for your tremendous support....

yes, you are 100% right, I do and will always have a "clean Neshama" I just messed around with it, and I'm in the middle of making it shining again, you will see, it will shine more than the most expensive diamond out there, and I will definitely be proud of it..

Thanks for your input.

Thank you. (the bold section really touched me) sometimes I don't value the 'faking' part of it
