

Just say thanks ...

Posted by emuna613 - 11 Jan 2018 05:38

---

I am starting my journey again for the first time, and, with the help of the Creator and this community, I will be able to heal and build myself up, one day at a time.

The road is long and often unforgiving, but I am grateful for the opportunity to make things right.

I can barely survive 1-3 days without giving in. Hoping some of the other tools on this site will give me the strength to push on.

It's hard when one is on their own for everything.

welcome!

why not share what you already tried, what worked and what didn't?

this way you can get advice from the more experienced truckers...

Welcome!

It's hard to be on your own. But you're not!

Share more about yourself. Where you coming from?
