

Road to 90 days - my daily log
Posted by bonobo - 15 Mar 2019 04:10

Im starting over yet again, this is hour 1. I've fallen multiple times this week. I'm angry at myself and upset that I've allowed this to happen. I hope that through starting this thread it will give me chizuk to start again with a serious mindset and to enable me to journey far into the 90-day challenge and l"yh far beyond. My goal is to be able to add a new post to this thread every day saying that ive succeeded in making it through the day.

That being said... hour 1.

I'm sorry about your fall. But one week clean is great progress. Just get right back up and keep trying. Good luck!

I feel like I am going backwards. tonight procrastination for an exam and a lack of awareness to implement any of the sound advice given has led to a fall.

Congrats on the week clean! It may seem like nothing, but in fact it means for AN ENTIRE WEEK you pushed and successfully stayed strong, clean, and holy!!!

What helped for me in the beginning was to engage more with people on GYE. Don't just post your progress, also help other people and cheer them on. We are all in this together and it isn't easy but definitely possible, just look at all the people who started in the exact same position as you and are now clean for a month, 90 days, a year, and on and on....

So keep up the amazing work! Looking forward to seeing you progress and climb on this new journey hour by hour!

Thanks for the amazing chizuk and advice! It def helps to be mechazik me to continue on my journey. I'm not sure I feel comfortable helping others as I haven't yet found a way to help myself (not sure if this quite makes sense to you).

Anyway, Cheers.

This is a tough battle, one that I'm not sure im making any headway on. day 5 and I had a pretty bad fall.

Starting again now.

Umm, maybe like once or twice. If I did it certainly wasn't due to a conscious effort.

woww your amazing thats all i can say it reminds me of the story with i think reb elchonon who, when the nazis made him go through a line of two rows of soldiers hitting him with clubs he stopped and bent down to get his yarmulka and got back up.

some of us (old me included) would keep falling untill there no inspiration left. So, my suggestion is o try to think of a way to tackle this challenge from far away - meaning to think of tactics to keep away from pitfalls good luck

You keep writing and falling and writing - how do you keep in such good shape?
