

Trying again ...

Posted by shua73 - 30 Dec 2019 04:27

Long time no post. I've been inactive here for a while and have had ups and downs. Ive had periods of no masturbation for if I recall correctly, 130or so days. My current state is falling once every 6 to ten days for past few months or so. I recall that there was a way to join a group of people working towards 90 days to have a group count as well as individual count. Can someone point me to where that is?

Welcome back,

Those groups have fallen to the wayside a few years ago. Most weren't active more than a week anyways.

We are all here together as a collective group. Let's make this count.

May you be zoche to a true nes chanukah.

If I may suggest. Start with breaking the current pattern. Set a goal of being clean for 2 weeks, then once you accomplish that go for a bigger goal... Another suggestion, when you do have the urge to act out, delay it with 15 minutes & use that time to Daven to Hashem that you should eventually be able to be completely clean...

Slipped now (watching non-pornographic but still inappropriate content) until i remembered that I'm counting to 90. Interesting that I completely forgot that I was counting. But luckily I remembered and am still on track.

When you start to slip and you catch yourself and STOP, it's much greater than not slipping at all. Your self control muscles are building up and the reward for that is great too.

Keep it up and keep us inspired with your great progress!

Hey Shua, welcome back!

I actually came on here years ago with a different user name, then came back with this one and got to 200+ days, then fell and was in the dumps, and now B'h I am 36 days clean. The trick is to just keep getting back up and dusting yourself off, and moving forward.

Keep posting, smiling, and exercising the muscles DavidT mentioned. You will be stronger every day!

GYE is here for you and I wish you much hatzlacha!!

Now that two weeks is coming up, slipped but didn't fall. Not sure exactly what to write after this but my thoughts are that I'll keep trying. Have a good night.

It's important to minimize the time gap between a fall and getting up. The Y"H's main goal is to get you to give up and be down as long as possible, you're goal is to say NO! My falls do not define my essence, I'm a good person and eventually I'll be 100% clean with Hashem's help!
