Day 1: Hey all! Hope everyone is doing well during these crazy times. Today was the first day in my journey to 90 days, and I'm going to post everyday until 90 with G-d's help.

I've been on GYE for a while, with some breaks in between joining and now. Thankfully I've had a lot hatzlacha as a result of the help of many here and offline. This helped me stay "clean" for ).

In any case, I learned a lot from GYE, and it helped me hugely. In fact, I even achieved my first 90 days on GYE!

In addition to GYE, I've used many different resources in my journey (therapy, friends, family, groups, and reading). My involvement with GYE occurred mostly in the beginning of my journey, but there have been times where I tried to be active here again because I felt it may help me. Those attempts at revival were not very successful and I often felt like I had outgrown GYE. I always posted on my old thread and I think that contributed to making it difficult to start fresh; hence this new topic.

some very long periods of time, and some short periods as well (which is why I'm here now

In any case, sorry for the ramble. If for some odd reason you'd like to check out my old thread, you can do so here: <https://guardyoureyes.com/forum/4-On-the-Way-to-90-Days/305558-Journey-of-one-day-at-a-time>

Thanks for reading if you made it this far. Hopefully I'll get to know some of you over these 90 days and I'll actually stick around this time.

G-d bless!

Day 80: Ok day BH. Was pretty tired though. Turns out I don't have no need to sleep super powers. Quick maariv and then maybe I can still catch the midnight train. Or at least get someone in the open car on the back to give me a hand and pull me on. That is a reference to yesterday's daily boost. Yes, that was a Segway to plug the boosts. They are awesome and really help me keep the right perspective. Highly recommend signing up to get them on WhatsApp. Also, big yasher koach to everyone who makes em possible. Ok, nuff said. Have an awesome night people!

Day 81: I didn't go to minyan today or do my learning after davening. I actually got up on time, but was just feeling to stressed to leave the house. I ended up meditating and journaling and then just davening at home. I also decided to work remotely instead of going into the office. Felt like I needed the quiet and privacy. Not happy that I missed minyan etc. but I think it may have been necessary. Missing one day out of about two weeks ain't bad though. Especially for a notorious minyan skipper like me. I'll be back tomorrow IYH.

Had an OK day at work BH. Other things I did today: Therapy, small grocery shopping, some tidying up. I also did my daily exercise which is good. Been good with that lately BH. I always feel better when I do it. Not even the actual effect of the exercise per se. More about that I feel like I'm doing the right thing by trying to take care of my body a bit.

Another random thing: I've been known to enjoy sipping a Scotch or whiskey in the evening. After a long day at work it's a satisfying drink indeed. However, I realized that it's just an easy way to relax but it doesn't actually reduce stress. Just masks it. So instead of doing harder things that would actually reduce my stress levels, I would just cover it up. Thing is, it creeps up on you. Like I think this contributed to me feeling like I needed a time out this morning. I wasn't really dealing with my stress adequately in the previous days. Skipping meditation, journaling etc in favor of scotch. Ok, not really sure what I'm saying so I'll stop rambling.

I knknow I'm sounding like a broken record, but thanks GYE for the daily boosts, they help me alot! Ok ,havea great night y'all!

Day 82 and 83: Thank G-d, nice shabbos overall. Video calling is great. Much closer to seeing people than just talking on the phone alone. One good thing bout corona is I got used to using it alot more. Long shabbos afternoon. Ok, my eyes are sorta hurting so gonna end it here for now. Have a great week y'all!

Day 84: Toughish day. Decently productive, but dealing with some difficult emotions. Having a hard time forgetting about a girl I dated. They say time is supposed to heal ya, but as they say, "I ain't done much healin". Oy, shidduchim ain't that fun. It appears that like most things in life,

I've got more to say but I'm falling asleep here. Ok, quick maariv and into bed before it's way late. Shucks, I think it's too late for that already (no pun intended, ok, maybe I just lied).

Good night!

getting married is no exception and requires significant effort

Days 85-88: Needed a couple days off without posting. Needed to get this topic off my mind. Not that I was specifically lusting or anything. Just was pretty stressed and I felt like even remembering this area of struggle as an option for stress relief was not gonna help. It's the great irony which many on GYE are aware of. You don't think about your problems, it's hard to progress etc. You think too much about your problems, you become your problems. The answer

Ok, anyways, fine Tisha B'av so far. As fine as Tisha B'av can be I guess. Not a huge fan of the Ok, nuff ramblin for one day. Have an easy fast y'all and keep rocking!

Day 89: Ok day so far BH. Looking forward to a nice shabbos Bezh.

I'm sort of at a loss of words today, so just going to wish everyone a great and peaceful shabbos!

Day 90: Ok, so here we are. Day 90. Big day, eh? This 90 day journey began on May 4. So, May, June, July. Now we're in August. Or, yud iyyar. So Iyyar, Sivan, Tamuz. Now we're in Av. Quite a bit of time on one hand, on the other, just a parcel.

It's actually been a pretty rough 3 months. Not really in terms of urges, although obviously there have been some tough moments. More in terms of life generally. It's been a pretty tough period of time. Coronavirus generally made things tough for everyone, and I was no exception. Total disruption to our sense of normalcy. But personally as well, these haven't been easy months.

Growth was present though, that's for damn sure. Unfortunately, it seems that through the path to growth is composed of pain, and there is no alternate route. I thank G-d for the growth, and pray for him to remove the pain. I pray that he molds together the pieces of glass of my shattered dreams.

It's hard to see movement and growth. This is partly because it happens gradually. Like how we don't notice that we are getting older. It's sort of the same with recovering from tough times and situations. We are getting better, healing and so forth. It's gradual though, so we can feel like we aren't getting any better, that we haven't been able to move on.

Grateful to Hashem for helping me reach this point. Grateful to all of you for commenting and giving me support and feedback.

I'm going to close out this thread for now. I'd like to keep it as a small book about this particular 90 day journey. I'll do one last post here IY'H tomorrow where I'll try to mention some things which worked for me.

Thanks again everyone for being with me along the way! Wishing everyone an awesome and excellent week!

Mazal Tov,

It must feel really good seeing that 90 up there. I am getting inspired just looking at it!

Don't leave us after this, we need you here.

Please don't close the thread. Keep it alive - it will be a chizuk to newcomers who wont automatically search for old threads. Of course the choice is yours - just asking.
